Ask United States To Join In Abolishing Battleship

SUGGESTION IS MADE BY STATESMEN

Move Advocated in Anticipation of Disarmament Parley in Coming Year

SAY SHIPS OBSOLETE

Officials Here Believe It Is Too Early to Permit Policy for Time

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(UP)—In anticipation of the Geneva disarmament conference next winter, British statesmen have renewed their suggestion that the United States join with them in abolition of the battleship, it was learned.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald made such a suggestion at the London naval conference in 1930, but it was dropped because of American opposition. Now it is learned this suggestion has been renewed informally, as a step which would send the Geneva disarmament conference off to a favorable start.

British statesmen advance arguments that the battleship has lost its major usefulness, but it is the greatest source of expense in naval budgets, and the best place at which to effect large economies.

Through this government opposed such a suggestion at London, it is said in official quarters that the attitude now is one of open-mindedness. There is a feeling among some administration officials that the battleship is obsolete.

The cruiser is a more practical weapon. It is felt that far more economical. Sentiment in the navy, however, is against abolishing the battleship. Some officials feel that American sentiment is to some extent swayed by the imposing size and grandeur of a battleship, but that this feeling may undergo a change.

The administration had indicated sympathy with the proposal of Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi for a holiday on all naval construction even before Senator William E. Borah proposed a five-year holiday. Officials feel, however, it is too early to permit a policy to crystallize regarding the British suggestion.

McDONALD MAY BE AMBASSADOR TO U. S.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Rumors that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald might become British ambassador to Washington or viceroy of India were current today in political circles.

The News of the World, owned by Lord Riddell, close friend of David Lloyd George, understood that MacDonald might go to Washington "in circumstances which would enable him to discuss with full authority the question of war debts."

The Sunday News-Chronicle predicted that the premier would be made Lord MacDonald of Liosse-mouth and Viceroy of India. Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, will become Lord Snowden of Tilford, the newspaper predicted.

First Air Mail Pilot Will Again Take Air

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Twenty years ago, on Sept. 23, 1911, the country gasped in amazement as young Earle Ovington carried the first official air mail in a pusher type plane a distance of 10 miles across Long Island, N. Y.

On Sept. 23, Ovington, now a resident of Santa Barbara, and still flying strong, will take to the air in the most modern of tri-motored airplanes and carry a special consignment of air mail on a 1000 mile trip over California and Arizona.

Frank H. Hitchcock was postmaster general when Ovington made his sensational flight and officially sent him on his way. Hitchcock, now publisher of the Tucson, Ariz., Citizen, will accompany Ovington on the commemorative flight.

PRESIDENT OF DAM BUILDERS PASSES SUNDAY

Head of Six Companies is Called By Death After Long Illness

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—(UP)—New leaders organized today to push construction of Hoover dam after the death of William H. Watis, president of the six companies which held the contract for the giant project.

The 72-year-old contractor died of cancer in a hospital here yesterday without ever having set foot on the site of his last and biggest undertaking.

Knowing for years that he was fighting a losing battle against the disease, Watis merged his Utah Construction company and five other firms into the six companies and captured the world's biggest contract—$48,890,995 to build the huge barrier across the Colorado river.

Then from his hospital bed he directed operations until he was too weak to continue. Last Saturday he lapsed into a coma and Sunday he died. Dr. Walter B. Coffey, noted cancer research specialist, was in constant attendance during his last hours.

His associates in the six companies, ordered by Watis on his deathbed to proceed "full speed" with the dam, were expected to meet soon and select a new president.

"It's just another job," the former Utah construction leader said when he learned his bid had won the dam contract. "I was more excited when I was building the Western Pacific railroad."

Watis never admitted to his associates that he had lost hope in his fight against cancer. He always assured them that he would "be out of here in a few weeks."

The contractor was born on a farm near Ogden, Utah, and as a young man rose rapidly in his field. His widow, brother, two sisters and seven grand-children survive him.

FIESTA COMES TO CLOSE ON SUNDAY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—(UP)—La Fiesta de Los Angeles, the 10-day party staged by the city to commemorate the 150th anniversary of its founding, came to a spectacular close late yesterday at the municipal airport.

Approximately 50,000 persons gathered at the airport and for six hours watched some of the outstanding aviators of the nation put their planes through all the stunts known to aviation.

The climax of the air meet was the destruction of a miniature village erected in the center of the field. Just before dusk six planes of the California national guard swooped down on the village, unleashing cargoes of high explosives, and, within a few minutes, reduced the 20 buildings to wreckage.

234 SURVIVORS OF LINER ARE EN ROUTE HERE

All Passengers and Crew of Colombia Are Taken Aboard Ship

SAN PEDRO, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Having cheated death in a tropical hurricane, 234 survivors of the liner Colombia, off Baja California, today were enroute to San Pedro aboard the United Fruit liner La Perla.

Radio advices received here said the survivors had been transferred from the rescue steamer San Mateo, southbound, to the La Perla, sailing north to Los Angeles harbor.

The Colombia, veteran of the Panama mail line, was driven to the rocks last Saturday night as she neared Cape Toscana as a storm of hurricane proportions drove out of the Pacific toward the coast of Mexico.

Twenty-two hours after the Colombia struck at 11:55 P. M. Saturday the United Fruit Liner San Mateo drew alongside the grounded ship and completed the rescue in heavy seas.

According to meager reports received by Coast radio stations, the rescue was extremely hazardous, but accomplished without loss of life, or injury to any of the passengers or crew of the Colombia.

The 114 passengers and most of the crew had taken to the ship's eight life boats shortly after the ship struck. For two hours the boats bobbed on the swells until the searchlights of the San Mateo flashed through the darkness as a sign that rescue was at hand.

The plight of the Colombia was flashed to the world by radio about midnight Saturday as stations on both coasts were carrying routine news of the tropical storm which was menacing shipping.

The graphic story was carried in 25 S. messages and conversations between the Colombia and the southbound San Mateo.

SELECT JURY TO TRY AGED WOMAN

NOGALES, Ariz., Sept. 14.—(UP)—Selection of a jury by nightfall to try Mrs. Louise F. Marshall, 72-year-old invalid, for murder was indicated at noon today, when five jurors had been tentatively accepted by the prosecution and defense.

Much of the customary delay of a murder trial was eliminated by Judge W. A. O'Connor, who dismissed in a body 17 persons admitting prejudice in favor of the defendant.

The judge asked the group of 47 persons to raise their right hand if they could not promise to serve without prejudice and 17 hands were lifted. The court dismissed them without questioning.

A packed courtroom was on hand when Mrs. Marshall was assisted to the prisoner's bench, where a specially constructed chair had been placed.

COUPLE IS CHARGED WITH ROBBERING BANK

FRESNO, Calif., Sept. 14.—(UP)—Today S. B. Meliory, 42, and his brother, Jess B. Meliory, 36, of Kings county, were expected to be taken into court on charges of holding up the Garbuths First National bank last April 6, when $2,299 was taken.

The two were arrested Saturday on a warrant charging bank robbery after the sheriff and his aides for more than five months had patiently pieced together small clues into a tight-fitting chain of circumstantial evidence.

The law officers said today both the Meliory brothers stoutly denied the bank robbery accusation.

Leader of One-Fifth of Population of India Meets Committee

LONDON, Sept. 14.—(UP)—The federal structure committee of the Indian round table conference met today to consider a constitution for India, holding one-fifth of the population of the world.

The meeting convened at St. James palace, Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, leader of the Indian nationalists, arrived 12 minutes late. He was observing his regular weekly day of silence.

Always a superb show-woman, Mrs. McPherson staged her newest wedding at sunrise in an airplane in Arizona, the state in which she first appeared after her purported kidnapping in 1926.

On the marriage license she took out in Yuma, Ariz., the now blond evangelist, gave her age as 38. Hutton, who has been a soloist and music teacher around Mrs. McPherson's Angelus Temple for the past six years, said he was 30.

Mrs. McPherson and Hutton, with several Angelus temple workers and other friends, left Los Angeles in a chartered airplane at 3 a. m. They flew to Yuma, took out their license, were married at sunrise at the Yuma airport and then flew back here in time for Mrs. McPherson to preach before a capacity house at her Four Squares Gospel temple Sunday morning.

Today Mrs. McPherson and Hutton were beaming with happiness and promising bigger and better conquests in the evangelical field. "I'm so happy," Mrs. McPherson said, and blushed as a bride should. "And we really are going to do so many important things together. We're going to work right along on Angelus temple business and I'm sure two heads are better than one."

"I am the happiest man in the world," said Hutton. "We are going to put our shoulders to the wheel."

BODY OF EXPECTANT MOTHER FOUND NUDE

SAN MATEO, Calif., Sept. 14.—(UP)—The nude body of a young expectant mother, found beside a highway near Rockaway Beach, provided the San Francisco bay district with a new death mystery today.

San Francisco and San Mateo authorities who investigated said the woman apparently had been beaten to death. They could find no marks of identification.

It was estimated that the victim was about 30 years old and that she had been dead 48 hours when found Sunday.

N. D. Austin, a federal prohibition agent whose 20 year old daughter Mildred Austin, has been subjected to a week's search, failed to identify the body.

AIMEE WEDDED SUNDAY AFTER TRIP TO YUMA

Flies to Arizona and Marries Voice Instructor at Temple

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Aimee Sample McPherson, internationally known evangelist, was a bride for the third time today.

Once widowed, once divorced, she took a new husband yesterday when she married David Hutton, her 250 pound voice instructor.

Always a superb show-woman, Mrs. McPherson staged her newest wedding at sunrise in an airplane in Arizona, the state in which she first appeared after her purported kidnapping in 1926.

On the marriage license she took out in Yuma, Ariz., the now blond evangelist, gave her age as 38. Hutton, who has been a soloist and music teacher around Mrs. McPherson's Angelus Temple for the past six years, said he was 30.

MOONEY TAKES RAP AT LABOR LEADERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—(UP)—An open letter from Tom Mooney charging a number of labor leaders here have sought to destroy his defense organization was sent to the California State Federation of Labor convention in Santa Barbara today.

The letter, written from San Quentin prison where Mooney is serving a life term for conviction of complicity in the San Francisco preparedness day bombing of 1916, referred to resolutions recently adopted by the Labor council here.

The resolutions repudiated the Tom Mooney murder defense committee and proposed that the State Federation executive council assume control of all activities on behalf of Mooney and Warren K. Billings, who was convicted with him. Billings is serving a life term in Folsom prison.

Joseph Lebrich, one of the most brilliant and famous of French airmen, and his veteran mechanic, Rene Mesmin, were either killed or injured by the explosion, Doret believed. The ship fell some 600 feet in the foothills of the Ural mountains and Doret escaped by parachute. Lebrich and Mesmin died in the plane.

ELKS' TEMPLE AT TULARE IS BURNED

TULARE, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Fire of undetermined origin early Sunday destroyed the upper part of the Elks building, next to the Bank of America branch, here with a loss estimated at $20,000.

The fire department was handicapped in combating the blaze by the breaking out of a small fire in the basement of a restaurant three-quarters of a block distant.

Damaged by water in the street flood of the Elks building were the branch office of the Southern California Automobile club, a billiard hall and a sporting goods store.

Increase In Attendance Is Forecast

Enrollment in All Schools of Orange County Surpass Last Year

WITH OVER 6000 students enrolled in the schools of Santa Ana on the opening day today indications pointed to a probable increase over last year's attendance when final figures for the initial day are compiled.

Today's total of 6011 students includes only a portion of the junior college enrollment, namely, 260 sophomores. Registration for freshmen has not been completed and when it is this class is expected to swell the total considerably.

Last year's registration on the opening day was 6149 and today's figures come very close to the prediction made by Dr. Percy R. Davis, superintendent of schools, that the initial registration would be about 6000.

There were 3552 elementary school students on hand today in the 14 schools as compared with 3330 last year, showing a gain in this division amounting to 172 students.

In the junior high schools there were 1233 students registered as compared with 1213 last year, a gain of 40 students.

The high school showed a decrease of 53 students, a condition which was anticipated partly because of the students in the coast regions attending the new Newport Harbor union high school.

Last year the opening day saw 1099 students. The opening day last year for the junior college brought 547 students as compared to 260 today. This figure, however, is not comparable to that of last year, for it does not include freshmen.

Enrollment in the 14 elementary schools for today and for the first day of last year was as follows:

Delhi 214, last year 232; Edison 275, last year 266; Franklin 241, last year 248; Fremont 304, last year 286; Hoover 142, last year 109; Jefferson 212, last year 181.

LEGION TO AID GOVERNMENT IN RELIEF PLANS

Veterans' Officers Gather in Washington to Discuss Proposals

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(UP)—The American Legion, numbering more than 1,000,000 veterans in 11,000 posts over the country, consulted through its officials here today with industrial, labor and government leaders on how best to help create jobs for the unemployed.

The Legion leaders hope to be able to draft a program of aid, to be presented to the organization's national convention at Detroit, September 21 to 24, for approval and immediate inauguration.

Seventeen governors have accepted the invitation of Commander Ralph T. O'Neil, unemployment committee, Chairman James G. Harbord of the Radio Corporation; Harford MacNider, U. S. minister to Canada, and labor department officials will also take part in the sessions.

Reports will be received on the activities so far of the state departments and local posts of the Legion. These have been directed mostly toward stimulating of local and state public works and providing of industrial employment in scattered industries. It is claimed that several hundred thousand jobs have been given during recent months under these Legion activities.

SURVIVOR OF CRASH TELLS EXPERIENCES

UEA, Soviet Russia, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Marcel Doret, only survivor of the French attempt to fly from Paris to Tokio, told today how an explosion wrecked the motor of the Hyphen II as the ship sought its way through thick fog.

Joseph Lebrich, one of the most brilliant and famous of French airmen, and his veteran mechanic, Rene Mesmin, were either killed or injured by the explosion, Doret believed. The ship fell some 600 feet in the foothills of the Ural mountains and Doret escaped by parachute. Lebrich and Mesmin died in the plane.

Today Mendell was to appear before United States District Judge George Cosgrave for setting of a trial date on charges of conspiracy to smuggle Chinese into this country from Mexico by airplane. Two other men also are accused with Mendell.

DEATH TOTAL IS REPORTED TO BE 2000

Dazed Survivors Stricken With Fresh Terror as New Storm Is Forecast

FEAR FOR EPIDEMIC

Shortage of Water is Felt By Medical Authorities As Relief Comes

BELIZE, British Honduras, Sept. 14.—(UP)—(By Pan American Airways Radio)—Belize, devastated and stricken by last week's hurricane, was threatened with another storm today.

The new disturbance was reported moving up out of the Caribbean and heading toward the city. The word spread fresh terror among the dazed people. Authorities hoped, however, from the direction of the wind, that the storm might pass to the north of the city.

Earlier estimates of the dead from last Thursday's hurricane were revised sharply upwards today, and it was believed the official count might reach 2000 or more.

The city was flattened by the storm and thousands were homeless. Authorities, doing their best to preserve order, were apprehensive that the situation might get out of hand, but were relieved by the arrival of the U. S. S. Sacramento, which landed a party of men for guard duty and rescue work.

The Sacramento also landed medical supplies and doctors to care for the injured.

Food and water were being distributed by the authorities and so far there has been no acute shortage. Grave fear was felt, however, of the start of an epidemic in the low lying city and its marshy environs.

Fear of a cholera epidemic was felt by medical authorities today unless there is an immediate replenishment of the water supply.

Three ships only have appeared in Belize harbor. One was a hospital ship, the other a coasting vessel from Cuba, R. H., and the third a United Fruit ship from Jamaica.

Reports of relief on the way cheered the remaining populace, however, and the work of distributing what supplies and medicines remained after the hurricane, or were brought here since, proceeded efficiently today.

While martial law has not been declared, a form of military government is in effect, with guards on patrol to prevent looting. Many refugees were gathered in concrete public buildings.

Shipping is demoralized. Many small boats disappeared completely, and a number of larger ships are believed to have been sunk or damaged.

RECOVER 22 BODIES FROM TRAIN WRECK

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Twenty-two bodies had been recovered today from the wreckage of an express train blown from the Batorfay bridge by two powerful bombs. The bridge was demolished.

The train, speeding toward Budapest with a heavy passenger load, was in the center of the bridge when a bomb was exploded at each end of the structure. The express train was thrown from the bridge, with the exception of three cars, and rolled down a 120-foot embankment.

PRISON UPRISING CURBED AT JOLIET

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 14.—(UP)—A threatened riot at Stateville prison was quelled by guards, it was learned today, after two of them were severely beaten by six rebellious convicts.

The disturbance started when Guard George Davis ordered a convict back to his cell and the convict refused to move. Captain Taylor Davis was called. Five other prisoners attacked the guards. Shots of convicts in nearby cells attracted other guards, who subdued the convicts.

and make things hum. We are mighty happy."

Married At Airport

Miss Harriet Jordan, dean of the Temple Bible school, pronounced the couple man and wife. The ceremony was conducted in the Yuma airport, inside the plane in which the couple flew there.

Miss Jordan waited for the first conjugal kiss and then called to the pilot: "Give it the gun." The plane took off in a splatter of rain.

The bridesmaid at the ceremony was Miss Emma Schaeffer, Mrs. McPherson's secretary. Miss Schaeffer was at the beach with the evangelist the day she disappeared from Ocean Park in 1926, not to reappear until a month later when she turned up in Douglas, Ariz., reciting a story of having been kidnapped and held captive by a mysterious "Rose and Steve."

The best man at the wedding was J. G. Winters, business manager for Mrs. McPherson. Mrs. McPherson's son, Rolf, whom she married to Lorna Dee Smith of Oakland in a colorful ceremony at the Temple two months ago, gave the bride away.

Miss Jordan read the double ring ceremony. She did not ask the bride to obey the bridegroom. The engagement ring contained five diamonds, the largest mounted in the center. There were 10 small diamonds in the wedding ring. Hutton slipped on her finger.

Mrs. McPherson said she became engaged to Hutton three months ago. His home is in Pasadena. A baritone, he has performed in cities across the country. He once was soloist for the New York federation of churches, and was conductor of music for the young people's conference in New York. He once was conductor of the Nazareth Choral society and of the John Wesley church choir in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Friend of Sunday
He is a long standing friend of Homer Rodeheaver, the hymn writer and friend of Billy Sunday who once was reported engaged to Mrs. McPherson.

Hutton said he would help Mrs. McPherson at the temple.

"I've had a hand in any number of revival campaigns," he said, "and while I've never done much preaching, I may get around to that. We are going to Ventura tomorrow and from there to Portland. We'll return here in about two weeks."

"And then for the real honeymoon," said Mrs. McPherson, "Canada or Hawaii is where we're going. So far, it doesn't seem as though we've been married, we've been alone so little."

"We thought it all over and we prayed before we finally decided on getting married," she continued. "Then we determined on Arizona because we didn't wish to wait so long as you must under the California marriage law."

Although Mrs. McPherson met Hutton six years ago, her real romance with him started recently when she was producing "The Iron Furnace," a Biblical opera she presented at Angelus temple. Hutton had charge of the vocal work.

"What a Baritone!"
"I studied voice with him," she said, "and I'll admit his wonder baritone made a terrific impression on me."

Mrs. McPherson said she would be "Sister McPherson" in public life because "I'm so well known under that name." In private life she said she would be "plain Mrs. David Hutton."

It was the third marital adventure for Mrs. McPherson. She was married first to Robert Semple, an evangelist who died in China while on missionary duty. Her daughter, Roberta Semple Smythe, was born of this marriage.

She next was married to Harold McPherson, who later divorced her.

Of this union her son, Rolf, was born.

The marriage was the fourth this year in Mrs. McPherson's immediate family. First Roberts was married to William Smythe, purser of a ship on which the evangelist and her daughter were on a round-the-world tour.

Many Attracted By Features Of Circus Saturday

Hundreds of adults, some with children of their own and some with offspring generously loaned by neighbors, congregated Saturday afternoon and evening at the "big top" at Main and Pomona streets, where the Sells-Floto circus gave two performances.

The menagerie was of special interest to the sight-seers, and included the large herd of elephants made famous by Courtney Riley Cooper's popular magazine tales of "Big Mom" and her herd. "Big Mom," according to one of the keepers, is now in a zoo in Cincinnati, Ohio, and "Triby" reigns in her stead.

Especially noteworthy among the feats of the ring, were the aerial acts by a trio of trapeze performers, and the feature wherein an intrepid young man dropped from the top of the tent with his head in a noose. A dark-haired young woman presented a fair approximation of the feat that made Lillian Leitzel famous, although lacking the airy grace with which that ill-fated circus star presented the feat.

All in all it was considered an excellent performance by old and young, one of the best to show in Santa Ana in recent years, and was heightened for the ubiquitous small boy by the presence of Tom Mix and his "wonder horse," Tony.

The circus went to San Diego from Santa Ana.

PROVIDE FUNDS FOR WORK ON UPPER RIVER

Indicating a sentiment in Riverside county favorable to participation in the check dam water conservation program on the upper Santa Ana river, in which the state would match funds provided by counties or cities in the watershed, the Riverside board of public utilities has voted to appropriate $10,000 to the project subject to the approval of the Riverside common council.

Approval of this step would make $20,000 available from Riverside county public funds, the Riverside county board of supervisors having included $20,000 in its 1931-1932 budget for this purpose.

Orange county has set aside $10,000 tentatively, to be available only if a study by an engineering commission shows that this section would benefit by the project. Chairman T. C. Jameson, of the Riverside county board, has said that it is doubtful if Riverside county will enter the program unless Orange county participates.

San Bernardino county, however, is willing to take part in the work if its $20,000 tentative appropriation is matched by Riverside county.

The project includes the building of check dams in the upper Santa Ana canyon and diversion of flood waters to spreading grounds from where the water would sink into the underground basin, the source of supply of most of Riverside county's irrigation and domestic water.

TALBERT

Miss Verne Helm and Miss Corinne Lucivain have entered junior college in Santa Ana. Both graduated in June from the Huntington Beach union high school. Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bushard spent the week end at Big Bear and in their absence Miss Faye Bushard and Louie Bushard were guests of Mrs. Griffith at Midway City.

Betty Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pope, celebrated her 16th birthday anniversary as the honor guest at a dinner party given in observance of the occasion at the family home, with a group of relatives and friends invited to join the family. A lovely pink cake scheme was used at the table by Mrs. Pope and the beautiful birthday cake was led in pink and bore 16 candles denoting Betty's years. Those present were her grandfather, John Pope, and Miss Florence Smith of this place; her aunt, Mrs. Mabel Rozelle, and cousin, Edna Rozelle, of Compton; uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lewis of Smelter; her parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pope and Freddie Pope of the home. Mrs. Rozelle and daughter remained over until Monday evening with their local relatives.

Miss Blanche Helm, who has attended the second session of summer school at San Diego Teachers' college, has completed her course and is now at home.

Miss Kathleen Helm, who has been spending a vacation in the mountains, has returned and is entertaining as her guest a friend, Miss Angella Navjet of Death valley.

Walter Scott, brother of Mrs. M. C. Hoepfner, and his wife and two sons, who have been guests the past week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hoepfner, returned to their home at Blythe the first of the week.

"Doing best we can with the speed" was one message sent to the San Mateo when the radio operator of the Colombia asked for all haste by rescue vessels and salvage tugs.

The San Mateo, after doing the major share in averting another tragedy of the sea, turned over the rescued to the La Perla, sister ship of the United Fruit line, which was bound north to California ports.

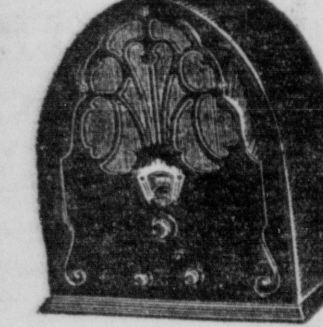

Captain Theodore Keith Oaks and a few selected crewmen are still aboard the Colombia, according to word here. The coast guard cutter Montgomery is standing by and the salvage tug Fenwick is due tomorrow. The weather, it was said, has cleared to some extent.

6000 STUDENTS ENROLL TODAY IN SANTA ANA

Lincoln 218, last year 205; Logan 158, last year 96; Lowell 224, last year 359; McKinley 375, last year 345; Muir 159, last year 176; Roosevelt 279, last year 292; Spurgeon 419, last year 425; and Wilson 232, with last year 230.

Half-Day Sessions

Because of the fact that the walnut harvest this year has started about 10 days to two weeks earlier than last year, half-day sessions, from 8 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., have started already in schools for Mexican children who pick walnuts. This condition has caused a smaller opening enrollment than otherwise might have been recorded, Dr. Davis pointed out.

The Julia Lathrop junior high school had an enrollment of 632 today as compared to 621 last year. The Frances Willard junior high school had 801 students today and 552 last year on the first day.

Considerable change in these figures is expected during the rest of the week because of the fact that registration has not been completed in the junior colleges and because of the increases which always come at the beginning of the school term with students entering later than the first day.

Increases Shown In County Schools

Orange county high school and junior college students trooped in to the various institutions of learning today and when they marched out again, increases in enrollment over last year were noted in each of the schools.

Fullerton Junior college had 530 students at noon today, with 425 signed on the first day last term. A gain of approximately 100 students is anticipated, according to Dean W. G. Boyce.

Brea-Olinda Union High school had 270 students at noon, as against 250 last September. The increase, according to Principal C. O. Harvey, is due to the academic trade courses inaugurated by the institution.

A 10 to 20 per cent gain has been recorded each year at the Garden Grove Union High school and today 295 pupils are enrolled, as compared with 280 last term. L. L. Doig, principal, announces. Two new teachers have been obtained. Mrs. Eleanor Cassidy, teaching English, who succeeds Mrs. Lillian Munger, and W. G. Axworthy, directing the orchestra and teaching instrumental music.

Principal John Malcolm had an increase of 25 pupils when the San Juan Capistrano Union High school opened today, 85 students being enrolled. The school has two new instructors, Miss Florence Sturm, languages, and Miss Margaret Nelson, domestic science and commercial subjects. During the summer a new athletic field was constructed and considerable work done on the grounds and buildings.

Around 600 pupils entered Orange Union High school this morning, Principal A. Haven Smith anticipates that this year's enrollment will show a substantial increase over last year.

Anahem Union High school has 828 students in class work, registration having been completed last week. The number last term was 758, Principal A. J. Claves announces.

With 450 students at the Huntington Beach Union High school, 75 more are expected by the end of the week. M. G. Jones, principal, stated today. The enrollment last year was 460.

Tustin Union High school will have 375 pupils by the end of the week, it was indicated today. The enrollment today was as follows: Freshmen, 101; sophomores, 107; juniors, 77, and seniors, 68, a total of 353. The registration last term was 350. New teachers announced by Principal J. W. Means are Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips Latin; Emma Danneman, home economics; Alice Maxon, physical education and English.

Fullerton Union High school had 1100 students this morning, with several more expected during the week. The enrollment will be about the same as last year, Principal L. E. Plummer states.

With all four classes represented, Newport Harbor Union High school started its year's work today with a full schedule. Principal S. H. Davidson announced that 280 pupils were in class rooms this morning. The largest enrollment at any time last year, the first term of the institution, was 220. Seniors attended Santa Ana High school last year.

City Police Take Prisoner On Raid

Police Officers Heard, Adams and Wolford raided a house between Lincoln and Logan streets, north of Fruit street Saturday night and arrested Rogelio Esparza, 28, on a charge of having intoxicating liquor in his possession and confiscated three cases of alleged beer, seven cases of empty bottles and a 15-gallon crock of alleged beer mash.

The officers destroyed all of the asserted liquor and equipment with the exception of two cases of the alleged "home brew." Esparza is scheduled to face Police Judge John Mitchell this afternoon.

BOY SLIGHTLY HURT

A car driven by City Attorney Clyde Downing was involved in an automobile crash in Orange this morning in which a small boy was slightly cut and both cars were badly damaged. The accident occurred on West Chapman avenue when the automobile driven by J. R. Locke, 590 North Lemon street, Orange, crashed into the car driven by Downing, as he was making a left turn at an intersection. The boy, who received only slight scratches, left before his name could be secured.

TRAIL SUSPECT

Billie Cooper, 19, was arrested Saturday night by Police Officer Adams as a burglary suspect after the police officers had trailed him for approximately one hour. According to Adams he became suspicious of Cooper's actions and followed him through the residence section. Cooper was taken into custody when he walked upon the rear porch of a dark house at 807 West Edinger Road. When searched a screwdriver was found in the youth's pocket.

LIST WINNERS IN 2ND BABY CONTEST GROUP

Rita Burman4,600
Norma Lee Herzog4,100
Velma Lois Sanford3,800

Winners in the second week of the Register-Neely-Fox Theaters baby contest in Santa Ana. Each selected last night after a week's voting and starting again today, patrons of the theater will again be allowed to vote for three of another group of babies whose pictures are on display at the Fox West Coast theater, in Neely's Dry Goods store and at the Commercial National bank.

A number of votes were cast this last week for babies who were in the contest the week before. These were not counted. Each week the voting is to be done only for the babies in the contest that week. At the end of each week, three winners are selected and at the end of the fourth week, the 12 winners then will be voted on to select the grand winner.

There is still plenty of time to enter babies in the contest. The third week starts today and no more babies will be taken for this week, but a new week starts next Monday and pictures of the baby for competition in that group will have to be made this week in order to have the child entered.

Pictures are made without cost to the parents at the Russell studio, on the second floor of the Register building.

The babies are competing for 12 prizes, the first of which, offered by the Commercial National Bank, is $50 in cash. Other 11 prizes are donated from the baby department of the Neely store on West Fourth street.

The winner of this week's contest, Rita Burman, won through subscriptions to the Register. The Register is giving 500 votes for each new two months subscription to the paper, and Baby Burman's teachers took advantage of that. Most of all her votes were received through Register subscriptions.

The only other way to obtain votes is through purchases at the Neely Store. One vote for every cent spent in the store is offered. All votes must be cast at the Fox West Coast theater.

CROWD HEARS ARGUMENTS FOR COLORADO AQUEDUCT AT MASS MEETING HERE

A crowd of approximately 1000 persons was present in Birch park Saturday evening at the mass meeting on Metropolitan Water District aqueduct bond election, to hear addresses by John Steven McGroarty, famous writer and lecturer, and W. P. Whitsett, chairman of the board of directors of the district.

Both speakers pointed out the need of immediate action toward replenishing the dwindling water resources of Southern California and urged voters to support the measure which will start construction of the aqueduct to bring water into this section from the Colorado river.

A. J. McFadden, chairman of the citizens committee in Santa Ana which is promoting the project, and which sponsored the mass meeting, presided.

McGroarty characterized the coastal area between Santa Barbara and San Diego as the site of a modern Babylon which he said was one of the greatest cities in history and which perished for lack of water. The same fate awaits the coast district unless provision is made for additional water supply, he declared.

He also made an appeal to the women of the community to co-operate in the campaign, and pointed out that success of the campaign meant that Santa Ana would have water available for a duplication of its present population.

Interesting points from the address of Whitsett, who is closely in touch with all phases of the matter, follow:

"At present we do not have an adequate supply of water. The wet years to a certain extent make up for the dry ones. But even if the wet years and dry years are balanced together, we are still using, here in Southern California, more water than comes to us on the average from all sources. The wells of Orange county dropping continually lower every year for many years, is ample proof of that fact. Such record means inevitable disaster."

"The higher basin will go dry first; the areas along the coast will be the first to get the salt water which is now moving in on them. Cities and farms, industry and agriculture, domestic and commercial users, will be in bitter contests for the fresh water they must have. That is a sad picture, but it is an inevitable eventuality without the water which the Colorado river aqueduct will bring to Southern California."

"If disaster is to be avoided, the aqueduct must be started now. Drier years and longer droughts than any which have occurred in the last 30 years have occurred in the past with suffering and loss, and in the cyclic turns of history will come again. With two and a half million people, and five billions of wealth depending on an adequate water supply, we are in a more critical situation than ever before, and unfortunately less prepared to meet a shortage."

"I am confident that with the adequate supply from the Colorado river, we shall see a return to the soil movement. Return to the soil movement, such as later people will realize that such a movement under certain conditions, is a permanent solution of the unemployment problem. Labor is more secure and industry more substantially founded where the factory laborer is able to supplement and fortify his economic security by living on an intensive cultivated garden acre. This consideration, while subservient to the essential fact that we must have the water, is nevertheless an important one."

During the evening a California state flag was presented to the American Legion drum corps by Mrs. Walter E. Hickey in behalf of the Golden West. The flag was accepted by Drum Major Edward Couron for the major.

Mrs. J. J. McConnell was arrested Saturday night at the Main Service Garage and lodged in the county jail on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Louie Dixon, 33, boatman at Newport Beach, was arrested Saturday night at the circus grounds and held in the county jail on a charge of being intoxicated.

Lucy Martinez, 24, 1805 West Second street and Joe Placentia, 32, 927 East Pine street were arrested Saturday night at Fourth and French streets and lodged in the county jail under charges of vagrancy.

Ernest Gracian, 32, Tustin, was arrested Saturday night and jailed on a charge of being drunk. At the time he was arrested Gracian had a bottle of bay rum in his possession.

Charlotte Summers, 26, Los Angeles nurse, was arrested in Fullerton early yesterday morning and brought to the county jail where she was held on a charge of intoxication.

Accused of operating a dance hall without first having secured a permit Adrien Cabrera, 54, was arrested Saturday night at Stanton. Sheriff Logan Jackson and Deputy Dukes made the arrest.

The woman who lived at 627 North Shelton street here at the time application for the pension was made in 1929, later moved to 1038 Logan street, according to information from those looking for her. She has moved from that address however, and her address is now unknown to those handling the pension, which it is said amounts to some $1200.

Earle W. Binkley, of the Veterans' Patrol, 236 Van Ness avenue, San Francisco, is conducting the search for the woman and will appreciate any information concerning her, he advises.

Tomorrow the board of supervisors will open bids from 15 to 20 contractors on grading and oiling the Orange county portion of the Carbon canyon road. It is estimated that the job will cost about $50,000 according to Highway Superintendent Nat Neff.

TIME—EARLY THIS MORNING; PLACE—ALMOST ANY HOME

There was no "shining morning face" when Johnny leaped from bed. The breakfast porridge wasn't good, the cream was sour he said. And little Sue was in a rage, her hair just wouldn't curl, and Father said to Mother, "where's our sunny little girl?" Big Sister couldn't find her books and then Big Brother roared he simply couldn't walk so far—he'd have to have a Ford.

Poor mother sliced and buttered bread and spread it thick with jam and hoped the children would recall her precepts not to cram. The house was in an uproar, then Johnny's shoe-string broke and little Sue cried "Hurry up! You're always such a poke!" Poor mother cried "Oh Son, dear Son, you surely will not wear those awful corded ties any more. Please get another pair." Big Brother donned them proudly and said with manner bluff, "G-wani! I like 'em dirty—these aren't half black enough!"

At last the turmoil ended. Gone were the sullen looks; the broken shoestrings mended; found were the vanished books. The house was like a cyclone, for nothing was in place, with books and clothes and papers scattered all about the place. Dad hurried to the office and Mother sighed "Oh dear! I'm glad the opening day of school comes only once a year!"

TRY NEW COOLING DEVICE ON PULLMAN

The third of a series of experiments for cooling sleeping cars and passenger coaches en route was inaugurated last night when a Pullman car left Los Angeles on the Golden State Limited via the Southern Pacific-Rock Island to Chicago. It was announced today by L. B. Valla, district passenger and freight agent for the S. P. lines.

This car has been equipped with a new cooling device which has been perfected by the Pullman company. More than 150,000 cubic feet of fresh air will be delivered into the car per minute, by an arrangement which will permit the car windows to be kept closed, thus preventing both heat and dust from entering. The fresh air will enter through tubes which have been previously cooled by evaporation of water outside of the tubes.

The device is entirely new and altogether different from any tried before and this is the first time that this particular device has been tried on any railroad, it is reported.

ANAHEIM MAN'S SUIT AGAINST SHERIFF OPENS

A $15,000 damage suit against Sheriff Logan Jackson and Deputies Eels and Nicholson was in progress in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court today before a jury of seven women and five men. The plaintiff is Nevil Hopson, 55, 1203 West Center street, Anaheim, who claims he was arrested by Eels and Nicholson on March 17 without a warrant and held in jail and the county hospital for 34 hours without being told what charge was against him.

On March 25 he was tried in the Huntington Beach justice court on a vagrancy charge and acquitted, his complaint said.

In an opening statement to the jury, Horace Head, who represented the defendants, with O. A. Jacobs, said Hopson was arrested while loitering in the vicinity of a school in the Westminster district, in violation of the law.

Hopson was the first witness called and he told the jury he had been to Huntington Beach to look for work and had stopped his car and got out for a minute on his return home. Eels and Nicholson took him into custody and that night he was taken to the county hospital for observation, he said.

Head, in his statement, said a number of complaints had been received from the Westminster district that a man was annoying school children there.

Hopson was represented by McFadden and Holden of Anaheim.

Aboard Airliner Eastern Air Transport

Smoking compartment, Washington-New York plane. Hostess offering Chesterfields. Photos by courtesy Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

Dear Peggy

I'm almost too excited to write, and there's so much to see, both inside the plane and out. We've left Washington behind now, and I've just had a Chesterfield in the smoking compartment—they serve them on every ship.

"Among the eighteen passengers there's a senator and a foreign diplomat, and I'm surprised at the number of women. The trip is two hundred miles and the meter in the cabin reads two miles a minute, think of that.

"For me, the Chesterfields were the nicest touch of all. I was just dying for a smoke, and when the hostess passed them (and my favorite cigarette at that) everyone else seemed as tickled as I was. And my—they did taste good!

Chesterfields are served in the smoking compartments of all these planes—the largest and most luxurious in the East. With the fast growth of air travel, Chesterfield makes many new friends each day, here as in city streets and country homes—wherever good taste counts.

A mild cigarette—delightfully mild and smooth—with a tobacco fragrance all its own.

WATER GROUPS DECIDE ON TWO PREREQUISITES

At a joint meeting of Associated Chambers of Commerce and Orange County Coast association water committees, held in the Newport Beach Legion hall Friday night, it was decided that there are two phases of the flood control and water conservation question which must be worked out before the issue is placed before the people.

According to Ross Shafer of Tustin, chairman of the associated water committee, it was decided at the meeting that these prerequisites are a working agreement between owners of water-bearing lands in the upper Prado basin on one hand, and the directors of the county flood control district on the other; and second, a peaceful settlement of litigation now pending over water rights in the Santa Ana basin.

These things should be worked out, the committee declared, before the project is placed before the voters, in order that there could be complete understanding on these matters before the people decide the issue.

Another subject which an Associated Chambers of Commerce committee is studying is the reclamation of sewage water. There are four sanitary districts and four cities who own title to sewage water in the joint outfall sewer line before it is spilled into the ocean. This committee is seeking to find out if an agreement can be worked out in regard to ownership of this water and if this is possible, how such an agreement can be arranged.

A committee of the Orange County Farm bureau is working on the same problem.

EXAMINE NEW STUDENTS IN LANGUAGE ABILITY

When it comes to getting down to fundamentals the Santa Ana junior college each year makes a practical test of the ability of entering freshmen to manipulate the English language and this year's test was given recently in the form of a 500-word paper which each student was required to write.

Believing that a college freshman should be able to express himself fairly well in his own language, the test was given to determine which students were qualified to continue their study of college English and which would benefit by a little more foundation work. Punctuation, grammar, sentence construction and the ability to stick to the subject were important factors in the test. Organization, paragraphing, choice of words, spelling and legibility were stressed.

A list of 20 topics was provided and failure to adhere strictly to a chosen subject resulted in rejection of the paper. The subjects were as follows: Why I Came to Junior College, The College Girl's Wardrobe, Our Prospects in Football, Advantages of Travel, Advantages (Disadvantages) of the College Student's Living at Home, The Olympic Games, Why Prohibition Should Be Retained (Abolished), My Summer's Travels (Job), What I Hope to Get From Junior College, Mistakes I Made in High School, The Future of Air Travel, Advantages of Being a Good Public Speaker, Music Appreciation in My Community, Modern Dances, The Best Play (Movie) of the Year, Radio Programs I Enjoy, My Future Vocation, Summer Work on an Orange Ranch, The Problem of Abolishing Unemployment, The New Architecture of City Buildings.

DELAY INQUEST IN SCOTT AUTO DEATH CASE

Investigation of the death of Mrs. Frances Scott, Long Beach widow killed in an automobile crash on the Trabuco canyon road Friday night was delayed today by Coroner C. D. Brown until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. Coroner Brown postponed the inquest until further information could be secured he said.

Edward Hunter, driver of the car that turned over and crushed Mrs. Scott to death, was at his home, 425 McClay street, and could not be moved to attend the inquest, according to his attending physician, Dr. W. F. Kistinger.

Hunter, mysteriously missing for 24 hours after the crash at approximately midnight Friday, was brought to his home here by friends who explained the man's actions to deputy sheriff's yesterday.

According to Dr. L. C. Deming of Anaheim, the man was found wandering in a dazed condition in the vicinity of the Santa Margarita ranch by an unknown Mexican, who took him to the home of William McGee, foreman of the ranch and friend of the injured man.

The Santa Margarita ranch is more than nine miles from the scene of the crash. After resting and receiving first aid treatment, he was removed to his Santa Ana home and friends and deputy sheriffs who had been conducting a search of the Trabuco canyon district from the time of his disappearance were notified.

Shock Caused Derangement. Dr. Deming, a friend of Hunter's, explained that his disappearance from the scene of the wreck had nothing to do with any attempt to evade questioning by investigating officers. He said that Hunter's disappearance was due entirely to a temporary derangement caused by the shock of the tragedy.

Deputy sheriffs who investigated the crash said that there was no trace of liquor in the car when they arrived at the scene of the crash.

According to Doctor Kistinger, who was called upon Hunter's arrival at his home here, the injured man told him that the last thing he remembers is lighting a cigarette while driving along the road.

Doctor Kistinger said that Hunter was painfully cut and bruised about the body and head and that he had suffered a partial dislocation of a vertebra in the neck. Due to the bruises, he said that Hunter might be forced to remain in bed for several days.

Hunter was injured and Mrs. Scott, his companion in the automobile, was killed late Friday night when the car left the highway and overturned while rounding a curve on the Trabuco canyon road. The woman was killed instantly when her head struck a rock as the heavy automobile rolled over, pinning her and Hunter beneath it. Hunter was taking Mrs. Scott to her home in Long Beach after a steak barbecue at the Hunter ranch in the Trabuco canyon.

Hunter Tells Story. According to information secured here today, Hunter is said to have told friends after receiving first aid, that he was conscious when taken from beneath his wrecked automobile. He is said to have told them that he rested by the road for a few minutes and rose to his feet, intending to view the wreckage and ascertain the fate of his companion. Something snapped, he said, according to friends, and the next thing he knew he was at the home of his friend, McGee, after having wandered through the canyon for several hours.

Funeral plans have not yet been announced. They will be delayed until after the inquest tomorrow. According to Robert Bailey, cashier of the Balboa bank and brother of the dead woman, services will be held in Long Beach, where the mother of Mrs. Scott resides.

RELIEF PLANS FOR NEEDY IN ANAHEIM MADE

ANAHEIM, Sept. 14.—Active plans to help the needy are being completed and many projects are under way at the present time by the Women's Aid societies of Anaheim churches.

The Women's Missionary society of the First Christian church are arranging to send a barrel of warm clothing and shoes to Indians on reservations in Arizona, who, it was reported to the organization, are threatened with need unless assistance comes from the outside. Clothing is being collected at the present time and the barrel of clothes and shoes is to be sent to Arizona early in October.

Definite plans for the project were made at a recent meeting of the society held at the home of Mrs. Rock on Miller road. Mrs. J. W. Belshaw presided and Mrs. J. H. Dougherty led in prayer. Mrs. J. A. Baker spoke on the conditions in Tibet and Mrs. Harold Clow spoke on the missionary work the society is doing in that country. Letters from missionaries in Tibet were read by Mrs. Charles Mills, Mrs. W. H. Manson and Ethel Cross. A group of songs were sung by Mrs. L. C. Thacher. The next meeting of the society will be held at the home of Mrs. H. O. Hunt on October 1 when Mrs. N. F. Ballou will be leader.

The Women's Aid society of the White Temple Methodist church are making definite plans to establish a commissary department in their organization. The department will collect commodities in the community and will distribute them to those who are in need.

Announcement of plans to work out the project were made at a meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. E. L. Hein on Brookhurst road.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Grace Lutheran church will hold regular meetings the third Thursday of each month at which time they plan to make quilts and garments for the needy in Anaheim.

Siostrom, 804 North Paulina, Anaheim, was booked Saturday by Traffic Officer Ross Sidebottom when he failed to make a boulevard stop at the corner of North Olive and North street. James Ray Miller, of Long Beach, was cited on a similar charge by Traffic Officer Fay Barnett Saturday at the corner of West and Lincoln streets.

Friends Fight As Riot Call Sent to Police

ANAHEIM, Sept. 14.—A "friendly" fight which caused a riot call to be sent to the police station late Saturday night, brought about the arrest of Ralph J. Jonker, 43, and Jake McKinley, 35, who were found rolling about on the pavement in front of the ideal cafe, desperately attempting to batter each other to a pulp, according to records on file at the police station.

The pair was brought to the police station by Officers Rude and Sherman and were booked on disturbing the peace and fighting charges.

EASTERN STAR TO GIVE CARD PARTY

ANAHEIM, Sept. 14.—Plans are completed for holding a public dinner and card party tomorrow night in the Masonic hall by the Chippa chapter, Order of Eastern Star. Mrs. Mae Harris, worthy matron of the chapter, and her officers will be hostesses at the affair. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m. More than 200 are expected to attend, it was announced by Oscar Brover, high priest of the Royal Arch Masons, who has been instrumental in making arrangements for the affair.

Brover has obtained 50 prizes for the evening of cards that will follow the dinner. An unique angle will be given to the affair when the winners of prizes will be given the choice of a number of prizes that will be arranged on a table. Both bridge and "600" will be played. Entertainment will be provided during the dinner hour.

GASOLINE WAR IN ANAHEIM IS STILL RAGING

ANAHEIM, Sept. 14.—Prolongation of the local gasoline price war that has been in progress in Anaheim for several months was indicated today when a number of so-called "cut-rate" oil stations posted new signs, slashing prices to a new low since the recent gasoline war that was prevalent throughout the state. Several stations in the southern part of the city today had signs posted offering gasoline for sale at prices ranging from nine and a half cents a gallon to 8 gallons for a dollar for the so-called "bootleg" gasoline.

One station that had been selling gasoline for twelve and a half cents a gallon indicated a drop of three cents a gallon on gasoline prices. Others varied considerably with the major stations selling standard brands of gasoline holding the price up to the regulation sixteen cents a gallon.

Merchants in Anaheim who handle gasoline and oil products have held a number of group meetings in order to make an attempt to establish the price of gasoline and oil in the city at standard prices. These efforts were in vain, however, as there were two service station operators who, it was reported, refused to maintain a standard price or who agreed to do so and then sold gasoline at cut-rate prices without posting signs advertising the price.

MRS. LONEUSIS CALLED AT AGE OF 82 YEARS

ANAHEIM, Sept. 14.—Funeral services for Mrs. Emily Loneus, 82, who passed away at her home on South Clementine street Friday afternoon after an illness of three months' duration, were held today from the chapel of the Hilgenfeld Funeral home, with the Rev. Virgil K. Ledbetter, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, officiating.

Mrs. Loneus was a native of Wisconsin and was a resident of South Dakota for many years, but had lived in Anaheim and vicinity for the past 12 years. MISSION WORK IS DESCRIBED IN EL MODENA

EL MODENA, Sept. 14.—At the morning services at the Friends church, the pulpit was occupied by the Rev. and Mrs. Isaac Smith, who have returned recently from Guatemala, Central America, where they enjoyed the missionary work. Mr. Smith gave a short address, and was followed by Mrs. Smith. "You people here are so helpful in supporting the missionaries in Central America and we want you to support us with your prayers also. I want to read a portion of the first chapter of Acts and want to especially emphasize the eighth verse—'But ye shall be as witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.' What is it to be witnesses?"

"Central America is of the utmost part of the earth, considering that it is farthest geographically from Jerusalem. It is full of superstition and doubt, and the missionaries are making plans this year to cover the whole field and tell the story to many who have never heard it. Plans have been made to send each one of the Bible school to different part of the field. Strenuous effort will be put forth, for surely the time draweth nigh, and the door will be shut on some, if we are not faithful."

"Let us be faithful in intercessory prayer that we might help. Howard and Julia Pierson are working here and there and have taken over our work while we are away. We were sent down there as industrial missionaries, and taught the people to make butter and to make preserves and jellies. The missionaries cannot keep their health in that climate and eat the native food, of beans, tortillas and a little rice. We taught them to raise vegetables and many things they knew nothing about. We made living a little more civilized and were able to provide foods to build up the bodies, and help to carry on the work."

"When we went there, the water we were compelled to use came from Chiquimula, in a muddy stream and we had to filter it. But as we had native help, our dishes were often washed in unboiled water and consequently our food became contaminated. Our problem grew and increased and it seemed sometimes that all the missionaries would be exterminated from the dreaded tropical dysentery. We asked God what He would have us do and it seemed it would be best to dig a well. There were no well drilling outfits in Guatemala, so we looked to the Lord."

"We decided to build a well rig of our own. We had only a small blacksmith shop, so we went to the railroad company in Guatemala City, and the superintendent said, 'Yes, we are interested in that and he gave us a letter to the roundhouse foreman and in that letter he said, 'Give Mr. Smith anything he wants, and do anything he wants you to do. As we looked around over the shops, we finally asked for the material of which a six inch drill and bit combined could be made up we were able to dig our well, which is capable of producing two thousand gallons an hour of pure, crystal water. What a wonderful thing to have nice clean water to drink. I thank the Lord and praise Him today, that you have had a part in this. The Lord has answered prayer."

BOATMEN SEEK CONCESSION ON SANTIAGO DAM

ORANGE, Sept. 14.—The fill at the Santiago dam is now about 50 per cent completed, according to John F. Johannsen, construction engineer connected with the project. Two shifts of 250 men each are working on the earth filled structure, which will be 120 feet in height when completed.

The men are working in 10-hour shifts and are those employed by the R. G. Letourneau Construction company. Beside this force, two sub-contractors have crews at work. The Wheatland Construction company of Whittier, has 50 men at work on concrete construction and the McAvoy Gravel company, Los Angeles, has 20 men employed.

About 15,000 cubic yards of dirt are added to the fill every 24 hours and about 450,000 cubic yards remain to be placed in the dam, which is of the "roll and fill" type.

Water is being pumped from the site and is being used in the construction work. The water is pumped through a 10-inch pipe and the pipe is filled all of the time.

When the dam is completed a lake more than a mile long will be formed. A number of persons already are interested in obtaining boating concessions, according to Johannsen. A hill overlooking the dam is constantly filled with sightseers, who remain for hours watching the big shovels at work.

Water from the dam will be shared by the Irvine company, the John T. Carpenter company and the Serrano Water company. It will impound 25,000 acre feet of water. The dam occupies the site of the old Orange county golf links. The Irvine company will link the water and the dam to obtain half of the water and the other two water companies will divide the other half.

UNION CHURCH SERVICES END SUNDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, Sept. 14.—"Falling to Accept the Seemingly Inevitable" was the subject of the sermon Sunday evening at the last union church service of the summer at the Methodist church by the Rev. Robert McAulay, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The Rev. R. A. Sawyer led in prayer. "The Earth Is the Lord's" was a solo by Miss Josephine Dugan of the Christian church. "Sing Unto God" was given by the Young People's choir of the Methodist church.

The Rev. Mr. McAulay said, in part: "There are four finalities, birth, environment, sin and death, by the standard of the world. But the Christian knows of another birth, a second birth, that which is born of the flesh but that which is born of the spirit is spirit. No, we do not have to accept our birth as inevitable. No birth need be final. Our environment can be changed by the grace of God. We can stay in the old environment but live on a higher plane. No, our environment is not final when it comes in contact with Christ. Sin is apparently final until we see Christ on the cross. Death itself is not final with the seed of immortality of the Christian."

WONDERFUL TO BE CHRISTIAN, SAYS PASTOR

ORANGE, Sept. 14.—"Would You Be a Christian If the Grave Ended All?" was the subject of the Sunday morning sermon at the Christian church by the Rev. Franklin H. Minck. The anthem by the choir was "Heavenly Shepherd," by Jewell, and the women's quartet sang "All the Way," by Emerson. Members of the quartet are Mrs. Leon De Larzes, Mrs. W. M. Whitney, Mrs. F. L. Finley and Mrs. C. A. McGill.

The Rev. Mr. Minck said in part: "Jesus said there is a home beyond the grave. Would you be a Christian if the grave ended all? The Christian life, here is life living. It is wonderful to be a Christian. Is the Christian life itself worth while? I am overcharged with joy to be a Christian."

It is only wonderful when we enter into it in a whole-hearted way, completely surrendered, enthusiastic, fired with the love of God, radiating love like the rays of the sun. By his grace, I shall be his witness. You are building for eternity. You teachers are building into the hearts of your pupils for eternity by the strength of Jesus Christ, that they may serve God throughout eternity."

ANNOUNCING THREE PRIZE CONTESTS

December 4, 1931, will be the Los Angeles Times' fiftieth birthday, in commemoration of which this newspaper will issue on that date a voluminous and appropriate "FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY EDITION", in combination with the regular Annual Midwinter Number ordinarily issued on or about the first of each year.

During this epochal half century, Southern California and the Los Angeles Times, rising alike from small beginnings, have faced the same problems, met and surmounted the same obstacles, fought through the same periods of panic and discouragement, and, actuated by the same unshakable confidence, have pressed steadily forward, each at length to attain a new high mark in the world's history of progress.

The FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY EDITION will set forth this dramatic narrative in seven profusely-illustrated magazines. In point of editorial comment and mechanical excellence it will be the culmination of all the annual editions which The Times has heretofore brought out. One of its notable features will be the reproduction of an immense collection of early-day photographs, visualizing the actual setting of streets, buildings, and general conditions which prevailed in and about Los Angeles a half century ago. These pictures, matched with similar views taken at later dates, will show the step-by-step growth from pioneer days up to the present moment. This pictorial record will be accompanied by a complete and historically-authentic account of the almost unbelievable changes and developments of the past five decades. Finally, will be set forth all the colorful and varied sights which will greet our visitors during 1932, including a complete pictorial section devoted to movie-land, and another giving complete illustrated details of Los Angeles' fast-approaching world tourist event—the great international Olympic Games.

In addition to the comprehensive editorial program already under preparation, The Times desires to include representative expressions from the people of Southern California at large, and to that end announces the prize contests described below. The intention in these contests is to avoid duplicating the subject matter to be covered in the regular editorial contents, augmenting the story with new side lights and intimate personal experiences.

$350 for Best Article on What's Ahead for Southern California

Who, fifty years ago, would have dared predict that the obscure village of Los Angeles, a pueblo of 11,183 inhabitants according to the 1880 census, would grow in five decades to the fifth largest municipality in the United States . . . that a million self-propelled vehicles would flash over its highways . . . that giant mechanical birds would convey passengers and mail to New York City in approximately a day's time!

Had the forthcoming FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY EDITION been published in 1881 as a prophecy of the future, its progenitors would have been objects of derision.

Yet, the miracle has only begun to unfold.

For the best prophetic article, forecasting in not more than 3000 words what is ahead for Southern California, the Los Angeles Times will pay $350.00; the winning article to appear in the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY EDITION. (The Times reserves the right to publish, and pay for at space rates, any non-prize-winning manuscripts.)

As to the scope or form of the prophecies, The Times makes no suggestions beyond pointing out that in general a forecast gains in plausibility and practical value if kept somewhere within range of present experience. Award will be made on the basis of all-around merit, everything considered.

$100 for Best Slogan Epitomizing Constructive Character of The Times

Many and diverse qualities are woven into the fabric of a great newspaper. For example, the Los Angeles Times prints more news than any other newspaper west of the Mississippi River. It also specializes in accuracy, and aims to deal fairly and impartially with all questions. It likewise is characterized by local ownership, and by its whole-hearted and aggressive support of local rights and interests.

$200 for 10 Best Anecdotes on Early-Day Life in Southern California

Strange and often amusing episodes took place in the frontier life of Southern California. Today, accounts of these occurrences are eagerly read, not alone for the actual event or the characters concerned, but because they give an intimate glimpse of the contrasting conditions of the period. Many an interesting tale could be told of journeys in the early days—of bear hunts—of floods and drought—of political intrigue—of business transactions—of the vicissitudes of daily life.

The Los Angeles Times will pay $20.00 each for the 10 best anecdotes of life in Southern California fifty or more years ago, such anecdotes to be written by men or women who were then living and who actually witnessed, participated in, or had first-hand knowledge of the event described. The winning anecdotes will appear in the forthcoming FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY EDITION.

Anecdotes must not exceed 200 words in length, and must be signed by the contestant's name, present address, age, and where living at the time the episode occurred.

GENERAL RULES

Contests are open to all except Los Angeles Times employees and their families. Manuscripts must be signed on front page with name and address of contestant. (In the "Anecdote Contest", contestants must also state age and where living when the episode occurred.) It will be impossible to return any manuscripts unless accompanied by self-addressed, stamped envelope. Manuscripts must be addressed to "Anniversary Contest Editor", Los Angeles.

Times, Los Angeles, Cal., and must reach The Times on or before midnight, Oct. 10, 1931.

Should two or more manuscripts, deemed of equal merit, be tied for any prize, the full amount of the prize will be paid to each. Winning contestants will be announced in the Fiftieth Anniversary Edition, December 4, 1931, at which time awards will be paid.

Judges will be a committee of Times executives; their decision will be final.

HARVEST HANDS USE NOVELTY INSTRUMENTS

The Six Harvest Hands, novelty entertainers on KREG from 10:30 to 11:00 p. m., made a distinct hit with many listeners last Thursday and Friday with their unusual, musical act.

A surprisingly odd assortment of instruments is used by these boys to produce the really excellent music that they offer. All the instruments are made by them, excepting the violin, accordion and harmonica. "Dignity" Blackford, the leader, plays an instrument that is a cross between a ukulele and a mandolin. "Newt" plays a guitar fashioned from a five gallon oil can. "Toby", playing the accordion, doubles on a tin pan banjo, and in addition to these instruments he makes beautiful music on an ordinary tire pump! "Guzzler" plays the harmonica. He is a 200 pounder and plays the smallest instrument in the band.

The most unusual instrument of all is an aggregation of odds and ends mounted on another five gallon oil can. An alarm clock plays the "snare drum", an old automobile horn with a "kazoo" attachment produces various weird effects, six harmonicas are mounted in a circular fashion, and a cymbal is actuated by a lever.

The Six Harvest Hands will be heard on KREG every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights from 10:30 to 11:00.

STUDIO MAKES CHANGES FOR TWO GROUPS

Two important changes have been made in this week's schedule of programs for KREG, affecting two very popular groups.

Bud and His Buddies, who have been heard previously from 4 to 5 p. m., are now scheduled for an hour later, and will broadcast their happy songs and good cheer between 5 and 6 p. m. daily, except Sunday.

Ray Dutton's Trio is taking a vacation for a while, but in their place, "Ray and Richard," piano and trumpet, will entertain Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 4 to 4:30 p. m. This program promises to be enjoyable, according to station officials, as it will feature harmony combinations of the piano and trumpet in tunes and melodies that are restful and refreshing.

ARRANGE PARTY FOR YOUNGSTERS

Another birthday party with a cake, candles and everything, is to be given during the Children's Program this evening on KREG from 6 to 6:30 in honor of Norbert Kinsel who will be 9 years old.

Other children will entertain during the program in addition to piano selections by Norbert. Little Beatrice Dysart is to play several delightful selections on the accordion, according to Lorena Credy who conducts the program, and her numbers promise to be most pleasing.

Dolores Kinsel, 7, and Ruth Ellen Sax, 4, are to offer piano selections. Celine Kinsel, 5, will recite nursery rhymes, and Marian Kinsel will sing. Gertrude Hunt is to sing and read, and Genevieve Vardy will offer piano selections.

"Where Do We Go From Here, Boys," "Where Do We Go From Here? - - -"

This rollicking song of good-fellowship has come down through the years, sometimes with close harmony, always with youthful vigor.

Today in Santa Ana "Where Do We Go From Here—" is not a song title, but a serious question. A little, old fellow with a quaking voice is asking it. And, the old gentleman is—Mr. Water Level.

After all arguments have been made for and against the Colorado River aqueduct as proposed by the Metropolitan Water District, there is just one question to answer. It is:—

DO WE NEED COLORADO RIVER WATER?

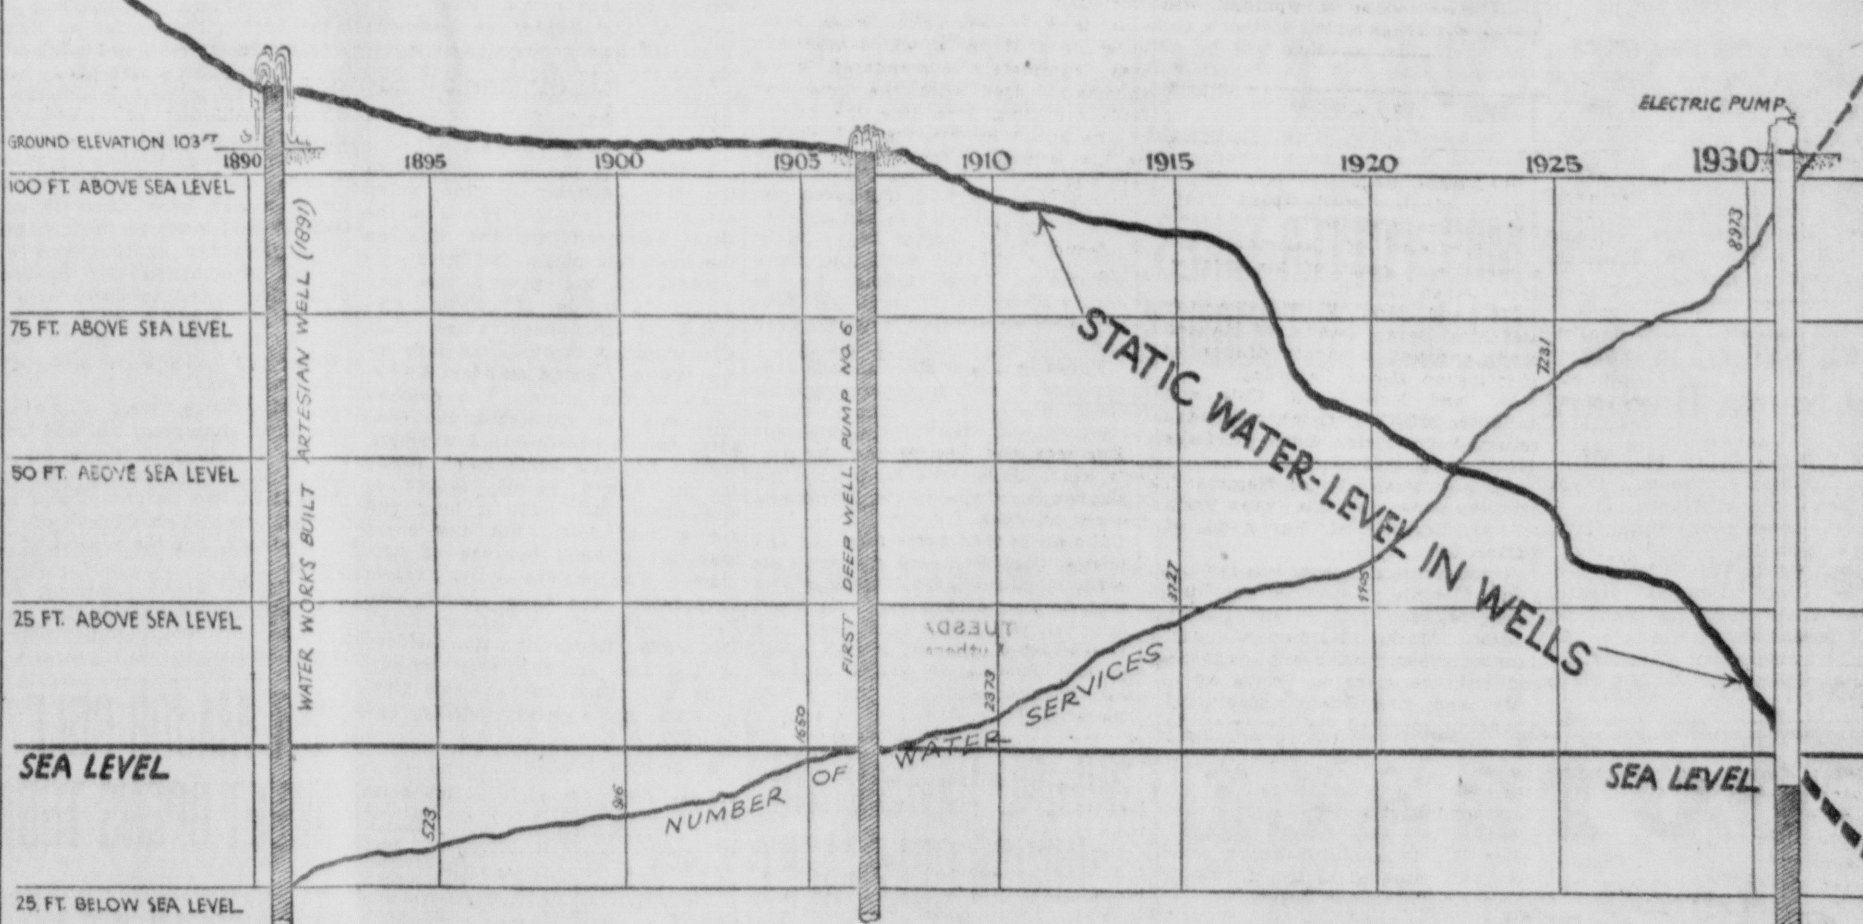

Look at our ancient neighbor, Mr. Water Level. He will give you the answer. He has been telling us for 20 years, but we haven't listened. Each year he gazes hopefully upward—and slips downward—year after year. Why shouldn't he ask, "Where do we go from here?"

Few of us heard Mr. Water Level when he spoke his warning. All of us, though, can take one minute to look at his picture. His likeness is below.

Will you believe your own eyes, or will you be swayed by flimsy, evasive argument?

The curve of the water users sweeps upward. The curve of the water level downward to below sea level. This tells the story:—

STATIC WATER-LEVEL IN WELLS OF SANTA ANA

The chart above is not propaganda prepared to support the aqueduct bond issue in a political sense. It is history taken from the pages of the Santa Ana Water and Engineering Departments. The indelible pencil of time has written it as a warning to us today.

ONE THOUSAND sponsors of the aqueduct bond issue have stepped forward in Santa Ana, showing a spontaneous loyalty in supporting the project which guarantees our future. The message of the Citizens' Committee to each of the staunch ONE THOUSAND is:—"See five neighbors before election day. An active interest is a vote in the ballot box."

AT 411 NO. MAIN ST. will be found the answer to many of your questions concerning the Metropolitan Water District. The local citizens' committee has established this headquarters to serve the public. Maps, charts and pamphlets present the aqueduct plan graphically. Ask for a banner to carry on your car bumper.

A PASSING MEMORY

Harry Sinclair announced the other day that following the action of the stewards because of the poisoning of the filly, Ladana, he would sell out the stable. That means the passing of the Ranocas white and green silks from the tracks, and these were colors that one day were unbeatable.

The dissolution of the stable comes two years after the death of the old master, San Hildreth. It was Hildreth who introduced Sinclair to racing, who trained his great horses of a few years back and who built the stable into one of the greatest on the American turf. His name arouses memories of brilliant victories.

SAM WAS THE BOSS

It occurs to me somehow that if Sam were alive, a Sinclair horse would not have been poisoned. Sam had a way of handling those things. There were no monkey-shines with the Ranocas string when Sam was prowling around the barns.

Sinclair used to be a great baseball fan. He knew little about horses until the day when he was introduced to Hildreth, who marked his program that day and picked six straight winners. That interested Sinclair a lot. He bought shares in several horses. Hildreth then had in training. Soon they formed a partnership, with Hildreth trainer and manager. The two men bought Ranocas, Pierre, Lorrillard's old stud farm at Jobstown, N. J., and remodeled it.

Great horses have carried the Sinclair-Hildreth colors and famous jockeys have worn them. One of the greatest of the string, I think, was Grey Lag. Mad Hatter was another. Zev won more renown than perhaps any of the others. Kai Sang, Tryster and Nedana were part of that doughty stable.

"A MITE SKEERY"

Amusing stories are told of Sam's superstitions. He hated to see a cross-eyed man viewing his entry in the paddock. He always thought that small dogs with long hair brought luck. He would not travel or allow his horses to be shipped on Friday. Once he sent some horses to Pimlico; they arrived early Friday; he put them back in the cars on Saturday, and moved on to Bowie.

There was a certain spot at Belmont where he chose to saddle his horses. That was a lucky spot. When Papyrus was brought over to race Zev in 1923, Hildreth refused to saddle Zev in a special enclosure built for the day. Officials argued with him, but he only growled.

Zev, in his white hood that day, flying around the oval lengths in front of the British Derby winner—Sande in the saddle, singing a soft song to Zev and turning half way around to see where in the world Papyrus was—Laverne Fator closing in the stretch atop great-hearted Grey Lag—these are brilliant pictures in which the Ranocas colors remain in memory.

Ocean Waif Winner At Santa Barbara

SAN PEDRO, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Hugh Angelman's schooner, Ocean Waif, was declared winner today of the 90 mile ocean race around Santa Barbara Island.

Although Ocean Waif finished second to Don Douglas' scratch schooner Endymion, its handicap gave it possession of the cup for the second successive year. W. V. Tedder's schooner, Diabolo, was third.

STARS MEET COLTON IN FOURTH GAME

East Predicts Long Tennis Reign For Vines

YOUTHFUL STAR BEATS LOTT TO CAPTURE TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Ellsworth Vines, Jr., Pasadena youth of 19 years, was rushing back to the west coast today to enter school at the University of Southern California and taking with him the newly won American singles championship. He had come, seen and conquered, with prospects of a long and prosperous reign.

Hardly more than a year after he first attracted general attention, and competing in his second national championship, the 19-year-old University of Southern California sophomore from Pasadena whipped George M. Lott of Philadelphia yesterday in four sets to succeed John Hope Doeg, formerly of California, as king of this country's singles players.

The California youngster has been virtually unbeatable this season. Out of 69 or 70 singles matches, he has lost only four times. Lott conquered him at New Orleans and registered another victory in the Southampton invitation, when Vines, through illness, had to default, with the score standing two sets all.

He lost to his doubles partner, the Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, in singles at the Agawam Hunt club, Providence, R. I., and bowed to the British star, Frederick J. Perry, in the recent international series at Philadelphia, 4-3, 7-5.

Assuming that Vines' game will improve steadily through the next four or five years, there seems no reason to believe he can be dislodged from the top for some time to come. The next American Davis cup team will be built around the young Californian.

KIWANIS CLUB IN ANNUAL GOLF MEET

The annual golf tournaments for the Santa Ana Kiwanis club has been set for Wednesday afternoon at the Santa Ana Country Club. The members of the club will meet for luncheon at Kerner's Cafe as usual, the meeting will be adjourned early and the players will go to the club immediately afterwards.

George Parker, Rufe Cartwright and Al Nowotny have charge of the tournament.

MRS. POTTER TAKES DEL MONTE TOURNEY

DEL MONTE, Calif., Sept. 14.—(UP)—Mrs. Brent Potter, veteran Palo Alto golfer, held the Del Monte women's championship today by her victory over Miss Esther Scott, Berkeley, 6 and 5, in the finals here Sunday.

Mrs. Potter, already northwest women's titlist, had made nine previous attempts to lift the Del Monte cup. She led Miss Scott five up at the end of the first 18 and played the last four holes of the afternoon round two under par.

URGE STILL THERE

The spark of battle hasn't completely died in the heart of Bobby Jones, above, photographed as a writer-spectator at the U. S. amateur championship at Beverly. When asked how it felt to be out of it all, Bobby replied that the old urge still flamed up every time he stepped out on the course to watch the golfers.

WHITES DEFEAT BLUES IN FIRST SAINT CONTEST

Football fans of the city were today discussing Santa Ana high school's chances in the Coast Preparatory league this fall following a regulation game on Poly field Saturday afternoon between two prospective eleven's which Coach "Tex" Oliver had selected from his Saint bandwagon. It was a battle between the Whites and the Blues, with the Whites winning out, 12-to-0.

The two teams looked horns on an even basis. Sammy Tucker, Alan Kidder, Floyd Montgomery, and Fred "Porky" Bell of the Whites matched wits in the backfield with Francis Conrad, Duane Larabee, Bob Mitchell, and Herb Meyer of the Blues, and thanks to an early lead, had things their own way throughout the contest.

Walter Cleveland, colored youth from Topeka, Kansas, was the center of attraction. Given his first real test in Saturday's game, Cleveland, who plays in the backfield, was the source of much favorable comment from the fans who gathered on Poly field. He displayed enough talent Saturday to indicate that once in the open, he is a hard man to catch. Fred "Porky" Bell, the only negro on the Saint squad before Cleveland checked out a suit Friday, is considered one of the fastest athletes in school; the Kansas youth has shown already that he can equal Bell's speed.

Long Pass

The Whites started off strongly. Following a series of line plays, Montgomery unleashed a 30-yard pass to Halfback Kidder, who raced to his opponents' 8-yard mark. Line plunges by Bell and Kidder placed the ball on the 3-yard ribbon, and on the next play, the flashy Bell went through center for a touchdown. Kidder, attempting a kick, failed to convert.

Characterized by substitutions, the second and third quarters rocked along with neither team having the advantage. Paul Hales went in for Kidder at halfback. Jack Mitchell replaced Montgomery at the other half position, and Cleveland, the newcomer, took Bell's position.

Kidder Stars

Kidder was the shining light of the final quarter. After going around right end for 20 yards, the Saint red-head hit the line on the next few plays, and with two minutes to go, placed the ball within 14 yards of scoring distance. Making use of a spin play, Kidder sailed through the line for the Whites' second and last touchdown of the game. The conversion was not attempted, the closest test ending 12-to-0. Previously, before Kidder's sensational sports in the fourth period, Meyer of the Blues had made a long run for a touchdown, but the score was not allowed because of off-side.

The Saints today began preparation for their game here Friday afternoon with Coach Clark DeGroot's Roosevelt Roughriders of the Los Angeles City League. This will mark Santa Ana's first practice game with outside opponents.

Saturday's lineup:

Whites (12) Pos. (0) Blues
Harris LER Perinich
Lutz LTR Round
Hinesley LGR Rirt
Meachetti C Haldeman
Utik RGL Rasmussen
Boyle RTI Devenney

ROLAND DAVIS WINS JUNIOR GOLF MEET

Roland Davis was crowned king of the junior golf players at the Santa Ana Country club, following his win in the junior championships, played over the course yesterday.

His score for the 36 holes was 165, with 22 handicap gave him a net 143.

Second place went to Tim Talbert who had 175-24-151.

HELENE MADISON SMASHES TWO MORE WATER RECORDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—(UP)—Helene Madison, American aquatic queen, added another record to her long list of achievements today as the result of her appearance in the Far Western swimming championships here.

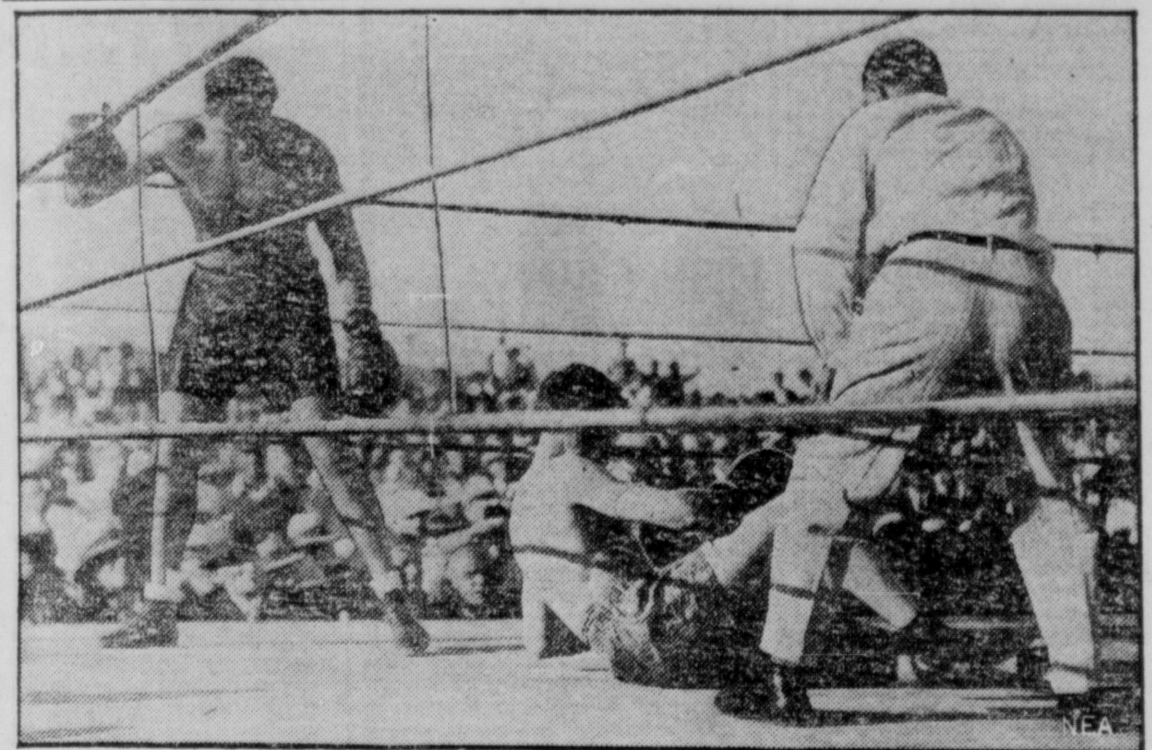

Competing yesterday in the 1500-yard event, Miss Madison won in 21 minutes and 13 seconds, or 3 minutes and 11 seconds under the recognized world record. The Seattle girl also won the 100-meter free style for women and on Saturday captured the 200-meter race.

Officials said that in the 1500-yard event Miss Madison set a new 700-yard record of 9:50 and unofficially broke her own world's 100-meter record of 15:42 by passing this point in 15:26. Both the recognized 300 and 1500-yard marks were held by Claire Galligan for 13 years.

Other results of the closing day yesterday:
400 meter men's free style—Buster Crabbe, L. A. A. C., first; Maolia Kallil, Hollywood A. C., second; Ted Wiger, Athens A. C., third. Time 5:06.6.
300 meter men's medley—Manuela Kallil, Hollywood, first; Buster Olds, unattached, second; Gordon Corson, Athens, third. Time 4:25.8.
300 meter women's medley—Marian Gilman, Western Women's club, first; Helene Zabriskie, second; Jennie Cramer, L. A. A. C., third. Time 5:15.5.
10 foot springboard fancy diving for women—Bunnie Fergus Russ, Western Women's club, first; Ellabeth Kitching, Western Women's club, second; Dorothy Poynton, Hollywood, third.
Men's high platform diving—Frank Kurtz, Hollywood, first; Bill Knowlton, Hollywood, second; Ed Thorndson, Olympic club, third.

SO DEMPSEY CAN'T HIT? NOT MUCH!

There's many a kayo wallop left in the dukes of the old Manassa Mauler, in case you're interested. The above picture offers a measure of proof. The reclining gent is Sam Baker, Douglas, Ariz., heavyweight, whose ribs felt the power of the Mauler's right. And if you suspected that Dempsey has been using light gloves in his exhibition series, you can discard that belief after sizing up the mitt dangling on his murderous left. It's as big as his head.

Well! Dogs Are Pulling In Swordfish

So common has it become for fishermen to snag swordfish in waters off Orange county, that sports editors throw such copy on the floor, but when a bull dog catches a swordfish—well, that can hardly be overlooked.

Del Lord, director of the Mack Sennett Studio went out here in a dory, alone except for his bulldog. He hooked a swordfish weighing 102 pounds, and then found out he didn't have a gaff. After an hour and 15 minutes of playing about, the bulldog grabbed the fish by the tail, and at least helped Lord get it into the boat.

Thirteen may be unlucky for some people, but as far as fishing is concerned, nothing is unluckier here this year. Everybody that goes out in a boat must have a whole stableful of horse-shoes stowed away.

Yesterday was September 13, but it was almost a record breaker for swordfish here. Just to show that 13 had no terrors for them, the anglers making this their port of call brought in 13. Saturday holds the record to date, with 15, and 15 is as many as have been landed in some whole seasons. So far 112 have been brought in here this year.

P. Z. Booth was yesterday's swordfish champion, he and some friends bringing in three on one trip. Roy Patton of Whittier brought in two Saturday, and Sam Collins, district attorney of Orange county, got his second of the season.

Dr. H. E. Stahler, Balboa dentist, pulled more and sharper teeth than he ever did before when he caught a hammerhead shark.

Eagle Two from Sand Trap Is Banker's Score

Dean Campbell, banker and as this story will prove a golfer, is one of those persons to whom a sand trap on a golf course is "just a breeze."

Playing at Willowick yesterday, he drove 300 yards on No. 12, but found his ball in a sand trap at one side of the fairway, still 167 yards from the hole. Selecting his spoon, he let fly. The ball hit short of the green and rolled forward, to drop into the hole for an eagle two.

A foursome was holding out on the No. 12 green when the shot was made and verified the remarkable shot, they having had the flag out for their own putting when Campbell's ball rolled in.

BEMIS WINNER LORENZ PRIZE GOLF MATCHES

L. W. Bemis was yesterday's winner of the Lorenz cup golf play at the Santa Ana Country club, defeating H. B. Van Dlen and J. W. Means in close play. Bemis shot a 79, with an eight handicap for a net of 71, to win. Van Dlen, second, had 86-14-72 and J. M. Means 95-22-73 for third place.

JOE CORNELIUS PICKED TO TIE TITLE SERIES

There won't be any more of this foolin' around as seen at Colton Friday night, when the Stars and Colton tangle in the fourth game of the championship series, in the Olive Bowl tonight.

That's what Manager George Lackaye said today, as he reiterated his statement of a week ago that the Stars would win the night baseball championship. "We'll win tonight, then we'll win Wednesday night and the last game of the series will be seen here Friday night," he said.

Lackaye is backing his statement on the fact that Joe Cornelius will be back on the mound for Santa Ana tonight against the railroaders. The Colton team which fussed Santa Ana by laying down beacoup bunts at Colton Friday night, will find the laying down bunts is a passe ar when Cornelius is on the rubber.

With Cornelius back in the game, Bill Cole back on first, the only other important change in the lineup will be Bell in left field. Manager Lackaye is changing her for Mene as the starting lineup.

The Stars at Colton Friday night interest in them and the championship series has not dwindled one particle, if the advance sale is any criterion.

"Eeny" Wilcox, catcher, who was seen in action in Colton for a while last Friday, the first time since he suffered an injured finger, will not play tonight. He had no business in there Friday, but due to the fact that Santa Ana played stayed at home in large numbers it was necessary that the Stars put nine men on the field and Elway was No. 9.

He showed his stuff with a twobagger at the right time and the Stars are handicapped with him on the bench, but his finger is still in bad shape and he is not in condition to play.

Stars Behind

With the series standing 2 to 1 in Colton's favor, the Stars again find them with their backs to the wall, making it almost necessary for them to cop tonight's game, they are to hold their night baseball championship title.

Should Santa Ana win tonight they would be jockeyed into most favorable position, because then of the next three possible games, two of them would be played in Santa Ana. In case seventh game is necessary to decide the championship, it will be played here.

CAPT. STEVENS ASKS VOTE ON BIG PROJECT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 14.—Capt. E. B. Stevens, member of the city council, is advocating construction of a breakwater at Huntington Beach as municipal project of a permanent character.

The idea of a breakwater was conceived by Captain Stevens five years ago. Opening of a section of the city to oil drilling has caused public attention and the city council has given the project the support of a permanent plan.

The idea of a breakwater was conceived by Captain Stevens five years ago. Opening of a section of the city to oil drilling has caused public attention and the city council has given the project the support of a permanent plan.

Council Stevens declares that it will be necessary to provide labor for the project. The project would extend 100 feet in length in front of the beach and the wings at each end of the 1000 feet would slope 250 feet at each side toward shore, giving 1500 feet of breakwater construction work. Such a project will be added to from time to time if found necessary.

Council Stevens has three years of experience to serve on the council. His hope is to have a proposition submitted to a vote of the people at the earliest possible date.

DEATH THREAT RECEIVED BY BEACH WOMAN

NEWPORT BEACH, Sept. 14.—Mrs. H. S. McKay, niece of Motley H. Flint, Los Angeles banker and financier shot to death while leaving the witness stand in a Los Angeles court room over a year ago, received another death threat Saturday night. Mrs. McKay and her husband are located at 713 East Bay Front, Newport Beach.

About 8:30 o'clock Saturday night as Mrs. McKay finished a telephone conversation with her dentist, a man's gruff voice came over the telephone. The speaker said: "We have not forgotten you. Just a year ago tonight we told you we would get you. You will not live until morning."

Mrs. McKay recognized the voice as that of a man who had telephoned her a year ago and threatened her life and who during the year has several times called her on the phone and made threats. Mrs. McKay told the speaker she did not fear him and that he could come at any time, adding "You haven't got the nerve."

Mr. McKay reported the mysterious threats to the police. The telephone operator was unable to trace the call. Mr. and Mrs. McKay think the phone threats come from some person of weak mentality.

800 ENROLLED IN BEACH CITY GRADE SCHOOL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 14.—More than 800 children entered the elementary school today. A swimming plunge and indoor gym were added at a cost of $25,000. The grounds have been landscaped. This work has given employment to many laborers during the summer months, all of whom are local men. No outside labor was ever employed on the landscape work. Local labor was also used on the gym and plunge, except for portions of the new building, where special skilled labor was required.

Dedication of the new school unit and inspection of the school park will be a public function of the near future, probably taking place during the latter part of the present month, or as soon as the school faculty and students can decide on features of the program.

Members of the board of education, John H. Eader, president; Warren J. Bristol, clerk, and Art Anderson, third member of the board, have put in a strenuous summer at the school, taking personal supervision of the building project and park landscaping that has been under way.

Airplanes intended to fly at altitudes of more than six miles, where they can reach high speeds, are being constructed in Germany.

Registration of students was under way the latter part of last week and the school presented a busy scene. The big enrollment is in the freshman class, but the enrollment in the upper classes shows very little if any falling off from last year.

The faculty opening picnic will be held Wednesday night at Heves park. There are only two new members of the faculty this year, Mrs. Edna Condon, who comes from Corvallis, Ore., and Miss Princess Booth, who comes direct to the school here from Occidental college in Los Angeles. McClelland G. Jones is superintendent of the high school, with R. M. Elliott vice principal. The board of education members are R. W. Schaefer, J. O. Pyle, E. R. Bradbury, Willis H. Warner and F. T. Grable.

LA HABRA, Sept. 14.—The first quarterly conference of the Methodist church will be held Thursday night at the church, with the district superintendent, Dr. J. A. Gelsinger in charge. Reports from the churches of the district will be given and plans for the year's work will be announced.

CHEMIST SAYS WATER FROM COLORADO O. K.

Maintaining that cost of the aqueduct construction to bring water into Southern California from the Colorado river is good insurance and that it is only one-fourth of fire insurance costs, Dr. Dean D. Waynick, chemist, of Anaheim, spoke from KREG Saturday night on the Metropolitan Water District program.

In his talk Dr. Waynick declared emphatically that the water was satisfactory in every respect for domestic use, and for agricultural purposes was better than some water now in use in the county and compared very favorably with supplies used by the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company and the Anaheim Union Water company.

High lights from the address follow:

"All cities in Orange county are dependent on water pumped from underground storage for their supply. In the Anaheim city wells, water levels have fallen 48 feet since 1927 or nearly 10 feet a year. It is evident that our present supply is not dependable with the heavy draft being placed upon it and that we will come to the bottom of the 'rain barrel' in the course of time.

Low Insurance

"Fire hazards increase as population increases and without an adequate water supply fire insurance rates become impossibly high.

The greater the lift of water from wells the greater the difficulty of maintaining an adequate supply. Our investment in the Colorado river aqueduct will not exceed $1.25 per $1000 of assessed valuation. Present fire insurance rates are twice that amount, figured on the actual value of the property, thus making the "water insurance rate" but 25 percent of that for fire insurance on the basis of a 50 percent valuation for taxation purposes.

"If it is worth $1.00 per year to insure your home against a fire, which in all probability will never happen, is it not worth 25 percent to assure a water supply from the Colorado river without which property values cannot be maintained. When it is realized that the maintenance of all values is dependent on the construction of this aqueduct, it should be necessary to count the ballots on September 29 only to ascertain the number of affirmative votes.

"One of the most important reasons for bringing Colorado river water here is that the source of supply is entirely independent of our own local water shed. The waters of the Colorado come from the greatest water shed in the country and one not subject to the wide variations in rainfall that our own local supplies are subject to.

Quality Satisfactory

"The question has frequently been asked as to the quality of Colorado river water. Without going into technical details it may be stated without qualification that the waters coming through the aqueduct will be satisfactory in every way for domestic use. The water has been used in Yuma for 100 years or more and in the cities of Imperial valley for the largest part of the century. As for irrigation use the water compares very favorably with that now coming down the canals of the Anaheim Union and Santa Ana Valley Irrigation companies. It is a better water than several now in use in Orange county for irrigation purposes.

"Of greatest importance in the home is the 'hardness' or softness of water. Colorado river water is a 'softer' water than the present water supply in Santa Ana and Anaheim.

"The statement has been made that the flooding of some salt beds at the mouth of the Virgin river will make the water unfit for use. Even if these beds are not covered with a clay blanket, as it is proposed to do, Dr. Ramsome of the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena has calculated that if all of the salt in these beds was dissolved at one time with the reservoir filled the amount of salt carried in the water reaching us would be increased so little that it could scarcely be detected chemically and certainly not by taste.

"If you vote no on the bonds without a full knowledge of what such a limited water supply really means, the time will come, and probably within this generation, when you will have little more water than a gallon a day if you continue to live in Orange county. We cannot maintain our present population without additional water and the future of Anaheim, Santa Ana, Fullerton and all of Southern California will hinge on the successful completion of the Colorado river aqueduct.

"It has been well said that 'without water the people perish.' 'It is certainly true that 'without water the people perish.'

PARTNERS DISAGREE

Friday the partners of Jack B. Burt, in the South Coast Laundry, sued him for an accounting and sought a receivership. Saturday Burt countered with a suit of his own in which he asserted that W. P. Hopkins and Cliff Roberts, the partners, are withholding laundry machinery worth $800 belonging to the business. He asked judgment for $200 damages.

STATE PATROL UNDERTAKES SPECIAL SAFETY CAMPAIGN FOR PROTECTION OF PUPILS

The Orange county division of the California Highway patrol, in charge of Captain Henry Meehan, today pioneered in a new field of service to the public when it announced that Officer George Peterkin will be in charge of a highway safety campaign for school children.

Co-operation of the public, the children and drivers of school buses will be enlisted in the campaign. Peterkin and Meehan said. Peterkin will devote his entire time to directing the safety work and has mapped out a policy which will be followed strictly, he declared.

The law requiring cars to stop when school buses are loading or unloading children will be enforced strictly, both when cars are meeting and overtaking buses. After stopping, drivers may proceed past the buses, but not faster than 10 miles an hour. It will be unlawful to go through a school crossing while children are trying to cross. This means all crossings, T. J. Meehan, not Peterkin said. The speed limit past schools will be 15 miles an hour and no leeway will be allowed.

Parents of children walking to school are requested to select the safest route and walk with their children the first day to familiarize the youngsters with the road. Boys and girls riding bicycles were cautioned to ride a straight line, as the whirling rider endangers himself and others. Roller skates should not be used on the way to school, Peterkin said.

A speed limit for buses has been recommended—25 miles per hour for cars with two-wheel brakes and 30 miles for the four-wheel type.

Further commenting on the plan, Peterkin said:

"The drivers have been told that no carelessness or negligence will be tolerated and each driver will be rated according to his efficiency as I watch him on the road and no leniency will be shown. I will be constantly checking on the drivers and aiding the districts in their traffic problems.

"School buses this year will not be loaded beyond the capacity of the seats. It has been the custom to crowd the children into the buses like sardines with no chance to keep their feet if the brakes are applied and with the drivers' vision obscured. I found one bus with a capacity of about 35, the driver of which admitted he had been in the practice of loading in 78 children. School buses are as apt to be involved in accidents as other vehicles and in such cases of overloading the result would be terrible and inexcusable.

"In case of any injury to a child this year, it will be my duty to drop all other work and investigate and to prosecute immediately any guilty party with all the power of the state and to the limit. Fatalities are increasing alarmingly and children cannot be expected to use the best of judgment, therefore the public must think for both and be careful."

WOMEN'S PRISON TO BE READY JAN. 1

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14.—(UP)—California's new state prison for women at Cummings Valley, Kern county, will be ready for occupancy January 1, 1932.

This is the prediction of Mrs. Ernest Wallace of Alhambra, chairman of the board of trustees of the institution, who says that work on the two cottages and administration building is being speeded up and is ahead of the contractor's schedule.

"Appointment of Miss Alicia Mosgrove as superintendent of the institution will be formally announced by Governor Rolph next month," said Mrs. Wallace.

"Miss Mosgrove has been making an inspection of similar institutions in eastern states, and has returned to California full of enthusiasm for her new work. She spent considerable time at the federal institution for women at Alderson, W. Va., the largest institution for women in the United States."

Miss Mosgrove is now selecting furnishings and furniture for the new prison and is also considering the personnel.

Editor Register:

I see by a news dispatch in the Register of the 8th that a plan for the relief of the unemployed has been suggested through the manufacture and marketing of beer and I suppose other liquors which claims that the government would be benefited to the amount of $500,000,000 annually.

Now suppose it would be double that amount, who would in the end be paying that? Would not the poor laborer and his family be the ones to pay a greater part of it? I am aware of the present depression, but is it because we do not have enough money that we have to consider such a scheme as proposed by Mr. Beck—a plan that has sent more souls to degradation and sorrow than all other things combined? It seems to me to be a sad affair when we must resort to such a destroying measure to support the unemployed among us.

Besides there would be but a very small percent of the unemployed that would receive any benefit, but they would be greater sufferers as the greater part of them would endeavor to drown their troubles with drink. I cast my first ballot when Kansas went dry—well it was much dryer than in the 70's. I lived there when liquor was handed over the bar by the barrels. I saw liquor in its prime, if it was that, also in the state of Nebraska. I lived a number of years in Kansas after prohibition law passed.

I have seen California before and after and I know we have enjoyed prohibition a thousand times more than we did before. I am a teetotaler, and like the Apostle Paul, I wish every man were as I am. And I am sure that here and all other liquors would soon make paupers of their manufacturers and salesmen. The graveyards would not have so many occupants, our jails would go begging, our states would not need so many laws, our churches would be better filled. There would not be so many broken hearts and homes and so much sorrow and death. Our government would be much richer, war and bloodshed would be lessened.

I am proud of President Hoover's stand—long may he live and here he never give up to such a hellish business. I wish I knew how to speak words that would send all such propositions into oblivion forever.

Yours for the right of all concerned.

SEARS ROEBUCK SPENDS GREAT SUM IN STATE

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(Special)—Sears, Roebuck and Co. spent a total of $5,833,321 in California during 1930, according to a compilation of figures made up by the company in connection with the celebration of the firm's 45th birthday. These figures, with an interpretation of them have been sent managers of various California branches.

A large single expenditure of the company in California for 1930 was for merchandise. This total is $3,387,032. The company bought California manufactured products from 245 different sources and for almost every one of the 70 departments of the concern. Another big expenditure by the company in California was for salaries and wages. This total for 1930 reached $1,906,769.

A total of $337,144 was spent by the organization with newspapers of the state for advertising. This money was spent in 25 different towns and in daily newspapers to advertise retail store merchandise. For rents, taxes and incidentals the company spent a total of $252,475 in California in 1930. There are 16 retail stores operated in this state.

"Sears, Roebuck and Co. bought merchandise from 245 different sources in California, the figures show," said O. A. Shade, manager. "This means that during 1930 thousands of factory employees were busy working on merchandise to supply our company. The factories from which we bought merchandise are located in 35 different towns in the state, all of which profited from the operations of our company.

"The great expenditure made for newspaper advertising proves that our company believes the daily newspaper is the backbone of any advertising campaign. We have used some other advertising media but we are told constantly from headquarters that our advertising money is for newspapers first and then if there is a sufficient amount in our budget it may be used for other media, at the discretion of the state and district managers.

"During our birthday celebration, from September 17th to 26th, it is our principal object to make new friends in each town in which we operate and to cement the thousands of friendships we have made since our opening of retail stores in this state. We have been accepted as a part of the community and we desire at all times to do those things which will be for the greatest good of the greatest number in the community. We shall appreciate visits from the residents of California during our birthday event."

Addresses Heard Yesterday In Santa Ana Churches

PUNISHMENT AWAITS ALL WRONG DOING

Does probation terminate with earth life? This was the question asked and discussed in a sermon preached yesterday by the Rev. Paul Andres, pastor of the Christian Spiritual Science church. The sermon in part follows:

"I am dealing tonight with a question that to some probably seems intricate. It is a question that almost answers itself, for it deals with the earthly as well as the spiritual conditions. We believe that wrong doing must meet just punishment in this or the other life. We also believe that reformation and consequent elevation is the birth-right of all who pass to the spirit world. It is truth which is eternal and must ultimately prevail. This is clearly set forth by the teaching of the Master.

"Heaven is a moral condition, and not a material plane of worship around a throne. God is spirit, and His creatures must be spiritual in their conceptions of Him. The Founder of Christianity in His purity taught that 'the Kingdom of Heaven is with,' and does not consist in divers ordinances or ceremonial worship.

"We have in His history given us by the evangelists, in the New Testament, the works He performed in His earth life going about doing good to the souls and bodies of mankind, thus setting an example for us to follow. After His crucifixion, He came and preached to the spirits in prison, thus showing that probation did not terminate with our mortal state of existence. Spirits in prison! Who are they, and what are their surroundings?

"They are those who have failed to live in harmony with the laws of their being. They have lived on the material plane, indulging their wicked passions, controlled by selfishness, and have thus disqualified themselves for association with any but those of like disposition.

"As to a literal lake of fire as a place of punishment into which human souls are plunged to burn forever, I cannot believe. There is no punishment inflicted by God's law that is wrathful or vindictive, but reformatory in its design and tendency.

"The sinner's prison walls of darkness will be broken through the agency of good spirits, who like Jesus, go and minister to those thus confined in prison, and accompany them to the realms of light, where loved ones will meet and rejoice over their deliverance from spiritual bondage."

DECLARES MEN NEED TO KNOW GOD'S MESSAGE

Basing his lesson on the story of the missionary experiences of Paul and Barnabas in Capernaum, the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church and teacher of the Men's Community Bible class, told members of that organization at the Fox West Coast theater yesterday morning that Jesus is the only one able to give men purity and strength and ability to stand trouble.

"Paul and Barnabas were great and successful preachers," the Rev. Mr. Buchanan said. "They did their very best and the whole town came out to hear them. It is always a marvelous thing to do your task in life the very best possible.

"These missionaries of the church were so successful in their work that after they had healed a crippled man they were regarded as gods. But they refused the gifts and honors and honors the people tried to press on them. They did not lose their heads as some persons do when they attain success. Criticism is bound to come to those who succeed, however, and many great leaders have died of broken hearts because of persecution.

"The citizens were aroused and beat Paul and Barnabas and threw them out of the city, half dead. But Paul arose and went back to tell them more of the love of God before he went on to another city. He carried the message that the world needs, especially now when it is in need of love and constructive thought."

Operate Pension Fund Successfully

More than $7,500,000 has been paid out to retired clergymen by the church pension fund since its establishment in 1917, according to a review of the fund's activities for the last 15 years which has just been prepared by Bishop William Lawrence, of Massachusetts. The survey is particularly significant in view of the approaching triennial general convention of the churches which starts September 16 in Denver.

As a result of the fund's steady growth, Bishop Lawrence points out, minimum age pensions have been raised from $600 annually to $1000. Present assets of the fund amount to $28,000,000, and pension payments are running at the rate of $1,000,000 a year. Each parish and ecclesiastical organization is called upon to contribute an amount equivalent to 7.5 per cent of its clergyman's salary.

REV. HOUSTON PREACHES ON JESUS' WORKS

"Jesus Works" was the topic of a sermon preached on Sunday by the Rev. C. C. Houston, pastor of the Southside Church of Christ. The text was taken from Mark 1:21-24. The sermon in part follows:

"Jesus was not an idler when he was here on earth. He was a very busy man. Wherever he was and wherever he went, he could see something to do. Some wayward one needing teaching as the woman at the well in Samaria.

"Jesus came into Galilee and did some great works to attest his divinity. The Centurian servant was healed. The mother-in-law of Peter was healed, and an unclean spirit was cast out of a man. These evil spirits were under the control of Satan, and strength as well as supernatural knowledge. They confessed the true character and personality of Jesus. He used his power over them to prove his divine claims above them.

"The great effect caused argument. His teaching and authority had been established as true and from God. The power over demons proved him extraordinary, and superior to demons and then superior to the devil who used them, and Christ thus proved his close communion with God.

"Jesus did all things well. It is good that we can change for the better. We have our problems. We must grapple with them, whether in the home, in the nation, in the social affairs, or in the church. When the clouds are dark and the pathway rough, and waves high, then with that compass, true in Christ and God we may rest securely in the sweet and precious promises of God, because of a life well spent and work well done."

SERMON TELLS IMPORTANCE OF WORK AND LOVE

Referring to the Apostle Paul's letters to the Corinthians concerning the duties and aims of church members, as found in I Corinthians, chapters 12 and 13, the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, preached to his morning congregation yesterday on the subject "The Church and Her Members."

"There is no other organization in the world like the church," he began. "None is so ready to help, so loving or with such a great task. Its sympathy and love will help in life's problems. It is God's institution. Let us love it and be loyal to it.

"In his letter Paul addresses the church members, telling them that they are all one body in Christ, but have different gifts from the Holy Spirit, which enable them best to do the various tasks of life. He emphasized that all were baptized in one spirit.

"Each member of the church is as each member of the body. Each has a part to do and that is a particular part. And just as the head controls our physical bodies and all their parts, so Christ, who is the head of the church, governs it.

"One reason the church is not going forward with better results is because too many tasks are given to too few people. There should be one task for one person and that then would be done well.

"All our gifts or talents are of no avail if love is not present as the ruling factor. May God help us to be filled with his love and be the kind of church members we should be."

HOLD SERVICE FOR STUDENTS IN S. A. CHURCH

Commenting on the opening of school as thousands again resume the pursuit of education, the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached to his congregation last night in a special service for students on the subject, "All This Education."

He declared that education falls of its high purpose if it fails to supply both knowledge and wisdom, cultivate gifts of the individual to aid society and send men and women into the world on a determined quest for uprightness of purpose and motive.

"Education sounds her clarion call in these days," he said, "and 6000 children in our own city, as a part of the procession made up of the millions in our land, follow her as the children of Hamelin's town followed in the wake of the Pied Piper. Education is the vogue. The average boy and girl take it as a matter of course to go through grade school and high school and it is no longer the unusual thing to make one's way to college halls. But with all this education there must still be the question of purpose that it is serving and the end to which it is directing its disciples. What is it doing for our boys and girls, our youths and maidens?

"Education fails of its high purpose if it does not succeed in supplying both knowledge and wisdom. Knowledge is the amassing of facts and pieces of information. Wisdom is the ability to organize that mass of information into constructive and helpful purpose. Education must teach a man how to use his information and establish life values in proper proportion and sound perspective.

Build Foundation

"Education fails of its high purpose if it does not send a man out on a determined quest for purity of life, nobleness of character, uprightness of purpose and motive. Sad it is when youths in their wildness mutiny against her, pull down her flag, imprison her skilled pilot, and turn her prow to shipwreck and destruction. Education is not merely to polish one's intellect, but to put stronger foundations of purity and sound living under one's life.

"Education fails of its high purpose if it fails to cultivate the ambition to use your gifts to help your fellowmen and to lift society. The spirit of the educated man is that of debt and servant. Education's charge is this: Every advantage you have you are to use, not to take advantage of a fellow being, but rather to work out his larger advantage. He alone is educated who comes not to be served but to serve.

"Education calls its disciples to follow her and then points her disciple to that majestic figure, the Man of Galilee, and says, 'Follow in the steps of him who is the way and the truth and the life.' In this matter of education, do not discard God, but seek him the more earnestly. Do not discard the Bible, but find in its pages counsel of wisdom and life. Do not discard the church, but live in its fellowship and breathe its Christian atmosphere. Do not discard your home, but follow close the advice of father and mother. Do not discard the Christ, but know him as the light that lights every man who comes into the world."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The proverb, "By humility and the fear of the Lord are riches and honor, and life," was the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance," Sunday, in the Santa Ana First Church of Christ, Scientist.

God's rewards for obedience were set forth in citations from Deuteronomy: "And it shall come to pass, if thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the Lord thy God will set thee on high above all nations of the earth: . . . Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field. . . . And thou shalt not go aside from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand, or to the left, to go after other gods and serve them."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, only the substance of good, the substance of Spirit, not matter. The belief that man has any other substance, or mind, is not spiritual and breaks the First Commandment. Thou shalt have one God, one Mind."

WELCOME NEW ARMY LEADERS TO SANTA ANA

Last night the Salvation Army and its friends officially welcomed to Santa Ana Captain and Mrs. R. D. Yuna, recently of Los Angeles, who have come here to have charge of Salvation Army operations, succeeding Ensign and Mrs. C. O. Edwards, who were transferred to Los Angeles. Captain Yuna addressed the gathering in the Salvation Army Citadel last night and there were several conversions.

Captain Yuna and his wife have had a period of successful years as Army officers, having been stationed in the slums of Chicago and at a number of other points in the east.

Last night he spoke from the text, Matthew 27:51, "The Rent Veil." He told how the way is opened by Jesus Christ, with the assurance of forgiveness and resurrection for the believers.

Speaking before a group of business men yesterday, he said the only thing that will help solve the relief problem and help people to help themselves is to change their lives by the power of God to loftier purposes and holy deeds. This is true, he said, as long as men thirst for righteousness, as long as people are starving and children are homeless and naked, as long as there is sin and lawbreaking.

Captain and Mrs. Yuna have pledged themselves to fight for all that is good in Santa Ana.

GIVES REASONS FOR SABBATH OBSERVANCE

"Saturday, the seventh day of the week, is still the day that every Christian should observe. It is a wonderful Christian institution, for it was made by Christ at creation and blessed by and set aside for a holy use by him," declared John E. Ford, Adventist evangelist, in his lecture last night at the tabernacle, 2707 North Main street.

"Some people believe that the Sabbath was made for the Jews alone, but it was made 2500 years before any Jews ever lived, Christ says it was made for man and, as Adam was the only man in existence when it was created, it was made for him. Adam stands for every nationality. There is plenty of command for keeping the Sabbath in the New Testament from the one statement by Jesus, 'The Sabbath was made for man.'

"Christ kept the Sabbath. His mother kept the Sabbath. The disciples kept the Sabbath. The early apostolic church and Paul kept the Sabbath. There is no record between the covers of the Bible that says that any day was observed for a weekly Sabbath except the seventh day of the week, which is Saturday. The Sabbath according to the commandment is the day that precedes the resurrection day of Christ, and all agree that Christ arose on Sunday.

Tuesday night the lecture topic is, "If God is Almighty, Why Did He Not Prevent Sin From Entering the World?" There is no service to-night.

Get Y Activities At Junior College Under Headway

The annual retreat for Santa Ana Junior College "Y" members will be held next Saturday and Sunday at Newport Beach, it was announced today by Jack Crawford, president of this organization.

The retreat is primarily to interest new men of the college in the organization and to lay plans for the coming season. It is held at the opening of each semester and is open to all men of the college. Dr. George Warner, pastor of the First M. E. church, Santa Ana, and the Rev. Lawson Watkins, former student at the school and now minister of the First M. E. church of Tustin, will be the principal speakers.

This year's session is of particular interest to old members of the organization because plans will be formulated for the annual college "Y" mixer, scheduled in the school gymnasium on Friday, September 25.

The Y. M. C. A. bulletin board, established last year in the main hall of the college building, will be in charge of Robert Durbin for the coming two semesters. This board, one of the most unique in Southern California, represents a complete map of the world, and each morning late news flashes from everywhere are posted, with a tiny light appearing on the board at the spot where the news originated.

FELLOW TELLS OF GAS TAX ROAD PLANS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 14.—(UP)—Unemployment in every California county would be relieved through the proposed one-cent gasoline tax increase and the $20,000,000 bond issue.

This is the contention of Senator Roy Fellom, San Francisco, in working out details of the plan which has been submitted to Governor Rolph and may be considered at a special session of the legislature.

According to figures compiled by Senator Fellom and Ray L. Riley, state controller, the plan would provide for the estimated payment of Orange county of $724,997 the first year and approximately $355,000 the following year.

"This money would be used entirely for highway construction and provide employment for thousands of men," Fellom stated. "As an equitable means of distribution, a flat basis of $20,000 would be used for all counties, with the remainder of the money realized from the plan allocated according to motor vehicle registration.

"The money from the sale of the bonds would be available at once, and by the time the new projects were completed the gas tax money would be coming in."

According to Fellom, the bonds would be retired in 10 years, or at the rate of $2,000,000 annually, taken from the additional money realized from the increased gas tax.

This plan has been approved by the executive and legislative committees of the California Association of County Supervisors. It will be presented to the whole organization meeting in Sacramento September 11.

At that time it is anticipated the group will voice its approval of the plan and it will be submitted to Governor Rolph with the supervisors' approval. In that event it is considered likely the governor will call a special session of the legislature, inasmuch as he has indicated the recommendation of the county boards would be considered of particular importance.

CAFETERIA AT NEW SCHOOL TO BEGIN SERVICE

When the new Frances Willard Junior High school opened today, one of the departments that puts this school on a par with the most modern educational plants of Southern California is its cafeteria, where noon lunch will be served to pupils and teachers. It was announced today by Dr. Percy R. Davis, city school superintendent.

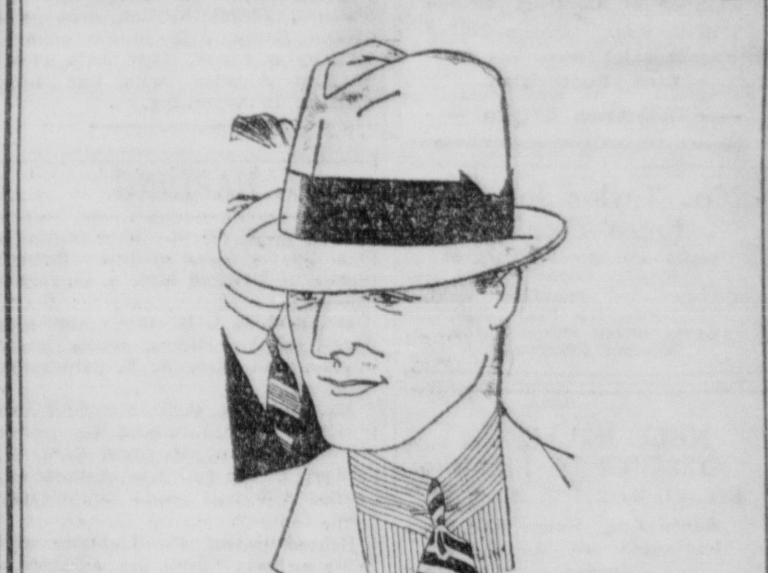

In arranging details of equipment and service at the school some of the most successful cafeterias of its kind in Southern cities were inspected and the thoroughly proven and practical features of each adopted, school officials said.

No meals were served today to avoid the waste inevitable upon preparing food without knowing how many are to be served. A survey was made in the various classes to determine how many expected to patronize the cafeteria. Meals then will be prepared for approximately this number. Beginning Tuesday noon lunch will be served each school day.

A trained and experienced dietitian, Mrs. Robert Speed, will be in charge of the cafeteria and each day's menu will be carefully planned with the idea of furnishing only wholesome, nourishing food, school authorities said. Food is to be served at the lowest possible price, the object being to make the cafeteria financially self-sustaining without making any profit.

So far as is possible all supplies for the cafeteria will be purchased from local dealers, it is learned.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonard's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that McCoy Drug Co. says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back.—(Adv.)

URBANA, Ill.—In the future the hundreds of tons of cornstalks that are left to rot on fields of farmers may be converted into gas to light and heat cities, Dr. A. M. Buswell, University of Illinois scientist, believes. He has already developed a fuel for lighting from cornstalk silage and sewage.

Sorority Members Are Honored By Pledges At Breakfast

Among the many charming affairs shared by members of Sigma Tau Psi sorority, none has been pleasanter than the breakfast complimenting them yesterday when two pledges soon to be initiated, Miss Muriel Rogers and Miss Mary Read, entertained at the Villa Riviera in Long Beach.

Much originality was shown in decorative appointments for the affair and the breakfast table was especially appropriate in its application of sorority colors of green and yellow. Emerald green velvet laid down the center of the table simulated a grassy path down which moved two little doll figures, gowned in pale yellow and bearing banners labeled "Pledge No. 1" and "Pledge No. 2," respectively. The small pledges were moving to the sorority letters outlined in yellow at one end of the velvet runner.

Favors were clever small green paddles lettered with the sorority insignia, with the name cards attached, and all details of the refreshing breakfast menu stressed the color motif so far as was possible. A pleasant hour followed in the lounge before the party broke up, some of the members returning home, others spending the remainder of the day at the beach.

Miss Read and Miss Rogers had as their guests, Mrs. Fred Gregory of Newport Heights, Mrs. Lee McClelland of Anaheim, Mrs. Herbert Hill of Whittier, Mrs. Kenneth Connor of Orange, Mrs. Frances Selway, Mrs. Roy Kidder, Mrs. Edmond Linsendahl and the Misses Lucy Holmes, Beth Westcott, Jean Peacock, Anne Tarver, Virginia Berry, Jean Rowland, Betty Rowland, Phyllis Pope, Alysse Majors, Winifred Johnson, Carol House, Doris Goff of Laguna Beach, Lucille Conaway and Agnita Wheeler of Garden Grove.

Former Classmates Are Guests at Charming Bridge Tea

A charmingly appointed bridge tea in her home, 920 Cypress avenue, was given Saturday afternoon by Miss Dorothy Mayhew when she was hostess to a group of friends who were classmates at Fullerton grammar school several years ago.

Pontifrons in delicate pink were mingled with blue delphinium in many bouquets used to adorn the rooms where bridge was in session. Larger basket bouquets were of orchid and pink dahlias.

In adding the afternoon's bridge scores, it was learned that Miss Elizabeth Berkeley held high honors. She was awarded a lovely imported vase. An enjoyable musical program followed, with Miss Florence Tozier, soloist at the Temple Baptist church in Los Angeles, singing several numbers. In compliance with the requests of her guests, Miss Mayhew played a charming group of piano selections, most of which were of her own composition.

The refreshment hour was a pleasant one, during which the hostess' mother, Mrs. W. L. Mayhew, presided at the tea urns. The long table was lighted with tall pink tapers and was made festive with bouquets in keeping with the pink and blue color motif. Of special charm was a colorful French bouquet resting on a mirror.

Club is Entertained As Compliment to Guest in City

The presence in this city of Mrs. J. Kelly Criswell (Marcia Babbitt) added interest to the enjoyable party at which Miss Marcia Larrick entertained members of her evening bridge club and a few friends late last week in her home at 515 North Sycamore street. Mrs. Criswell has been accompanying her husband on his business trip to Salt Lake City and adjacent communities and Vancouver, stopping en route at such scenic points as Yellowstone and Glacier national parks.

Reminiscent of Miss Larrick's recent vacation in San Francisco and her visits to the famous Chinatown of the northern city were the decorative features of her entertaining, with Chinese yellow blossoms harmonizing with the oriental motif of bridge appointments. Tally cards formed pretty mementoes of the evening, for they were small Japanese prints suitable for framing.

Chinese bronzes in the forms of gongs, trays, etc., were the pretty gifts awarded by the hostess and all were wrapped in brilliant yellow paper made doubly effective by black ribbons. Miss Mame Brightwell scored high, with Miss Edith Krueger low.

When arranged for serving refreshments late in the evening the card tables were quite charming with their yellow flowers and touches of the Orient.

Members of the club included, in addition to the hostess, Miss Larrick, the Misses Mame Brightwell, Susanne Claycomb, Edith Johnson, Alice Wassner, Louise Kaiser, Mary Smart, Pearl Nichols, Douglas, May Patton and Lee Patton, while special guests were Mrs. Criswell, Miss Pauline Parsons, Miss Minnie Day and Mrs. Italy Lee.

letters by personal letter, because I would need to know the facts surrounding each woman to give an intelligent answer to her question. This is impossible for me to do, much as I would like to. I can tell you how other women all over the country have solved this money-earning problem, then you can analyze your own pet abilities and go and do likewise.

(a) Mrs. —, a minister's widow, left without income, decided that food offered the easiest way to earn a living. She decided on three types of cakes, learned how to bake them excellently, then set about getting orders, first from her friends, then from a widening trade that came to her by "word-of-mouth" advertising. Last year, her sixth in business, she sold 72,000 cakes, all handmade by her small corps of personally trained women.

(b) Mrs. —, the wife of a business man who suddenly found himself without a business. She made excellent sugar cookies, fine cakes and excellent, light rolls. The sugar cookies were her first venture, her artistic side making them into delightful shapes, decorated with butter icing applied with pastry tube. She found such ready market for them, that she branched out, baking cakes for receptions, weddings, etc., supplying canapés and fancy sandwiches, until her fame grew so that she felt she could open up a small shop. This is still in the making, but shows such returns that the depression is over as far as she is concerned.

For lack of space I must leave still another money-making story—

DRAMATIC HIT

"The Star Witness" being shown at the Fox Broadway theater now is one of the most powerful plays brought to Santa Ana in the past several months. With Chick Sale and Walter Huston, the picture makes a strong appeal to the patriotic. In the picture is seen Sale, Huston and Dickey Moore.

two of them—about the home woman, until tomorrow.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Orange Bread
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup sugar
3, or more, cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons melted fat
1 cup sweet milk
1/2 cup candied orange peel

This is one of those quickly made breads, good hot or cold, and perfectly grand for breakfast toast. If you wish, you can make your own supply of candied orange peel—directions have been given so many times for making candied grapefruit peel and orange peel. For a change, try candied grapefruit peel in this loaf. It's delicious.

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt and place in a mixing bowl. Make a hole in the center, but first—

Whip the egg light, add milk and melted fat and whip again.

Work the liquid into the dry ingredients, then add the candied orange peel, cut in thin slivers. Pack the thick dough into an oiled bread tin, a deep one, let stand 15 minutes in the warm kitchen, then bake in a medium oven about one hour. Brush the top with powdered sugar mixed to a soft paste with a little grated orange peel and orange juice.

This orange loaf has to its credit a trifle over 3000 calories, most of which belong to the energy-makers. This bread must be eaten with discretion by the average adult, but children may have plenty of it after it is a day old—providing it lives to such hoary age. An ordinary slice will average close to 200 calories.

Fruit Butters, the leaflet promised last week, is ready for you. Just send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and it will be mailed to you promptly, free of charge.

I was given an old, tested recipe for making light rolls not long ago. We'll have a look at it tomorrow, make it, "as is," then change it to conform to ice-box roll regulations. I call these rolls, Grandmother's Light Rolls.

CHAPLIN'S "CITY LIGHTS" AT STATE

Charlie Chaplin's answer to talking pictures arrived, last night, at the Walker's State theater, with the presentation of "City Lights," undoubtedly the greatest contribution to the screen of the beloved comedian since he became a public idol.

For almost three years theatergoers have waited for "City Lights". It is a fast-moving, romantic comedy, with numerous dramatic highlights and touches of pathos such as only the genius of Chaplin knows. There is not one word of dialog used in the production but a delightful variation of music and sound is synchronized to the action throughout.

There are but three characters vital to the story. The leading male portrayal falls to the comedian and he presents himself in his familiar tramp get-up. Of next importance is a flower girl who is blind; the other is an eccentric millionaire. Three other characters that figure prominently are the blind girl's grandmother, played by Florence Lee; the millionaire's butler, portrayed by Alan Garcia, and a prizefighter, enacted by Hank Mann.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Sept. 14. — A skating party in Long Beach was planned for an evening's entertainment by the group of young people of the Westminster Presbyterian church of which Mr. and Mrs. Ed. L. Hensley are the superintendents. In this group were Mr. and Mrs. Hensley, Grant Peterson, Joe Hosack, James Goble, Eleanor McGarvin, John Day, Miss Ilamiae Hensley, Miss Shirley Day, Miss Annabelle Day, Miss Hattie Edwards, Miss Virginia McDonald, Bud Hare, Joe Hosack, Bill Turpin, Frank Eastwood, Miss Elvora Finley, Miss Eldora Finley and Miss Vera Stone.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Westminster Presbyterian church was entertained in the home of Mrs. J. P. Peterson with 10 members present. A book report was the special feature of entertainment and was given by Mrs. Virginia Peterson, Mrs. Joe Edwards, Mrs. Beatrice Knapp and Mrs. Mabel McCoy. Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. Ella Penhall were leaders for the lesson of the day.

'STREET SCENE' AT WEST COAST ATTRACTS MANY

Entrapped in the tenement district of a great city, completely hemmed in by poverty and a lack of opportunity, the lives of a boy and girl are unfolded on the screen of the Fox West Coast theater in one of the most amazing dramas that has been seen here in a long time.

The picture is "Street Scene," the story that won the Pulitzer prize.

"Street Scene" attracted more persons to its opening here last night than any picture has in the past several months, according to Norman Sprowl Fox theater manager, and the play is expected to heat all records at the theater since the theater adopted the 25 cent admission policy.

There are some who do not care for Sylvia Sidney, the little star of "Street Scene," but her work in this picture is outstanding. She fits into the plot of the show better than she has in any picture she has made and her appeal is chiefly in the manner in which she plays her part striving always for better things, hoping and longing for sunshine when only rain is her portion.

"Street Scene" has a powerful appeal and its story will be remembered for a long time.

"THE STAR WITNESS" WITH CHICK SALE, WALTER HUSTON IS OUTSTANDING PICTURE

The large audience at the Fox Broadway theater last night enthusiastically applauded "The Star Witness," a picture which is unique in being both melodrama and heart-warming human comedy.

Its grim theme—the danger which we all incur of innocently falling prey to the evil characters who lurk in every town, big and little—is made less grim by the characters to whom we are introduced, and which we feel we have always known and always wanted to know.

The high-speed action begins when Gran'pa Summerill, the Man Who Knew Lincoln (you must have seen Chic Sale play this part in vaudeville) gets a 48-hour leave from the Soldiers' Home, to visit his married daughter and her family in town. The family, including Pa Leeds and Ma, the pert young daughter, the grown sons, the two small boys and, of course, Gran'pa—are at supper when they are called to the window by shots, just in time to see a man shoot another. STORY BY HAI COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

Said Clowdy, "Gee, I'd like to sell these things. It would be swell. There's everything that folks could want. I guess I'll ask the man. He should be glad to get my aid. To try my luck I'm not afraid." The Travel Man said, "Go ahead. He'll likely say you can."

It took him just about one hop to reach the little tinware shop. "Say, Mister, can I help you sell?" said Clowdy, with a grin. The man replied, "It will be fine, if you can sell some things of mine. I'll tell you what my prices are, if you will walk right in."

Soon Clowdy started in to sell. The other Tines heard him yell, "Step right up, folks, and buy these wares. I'll sell them to you cheap. They're made of tin and iron and such and, really, they don't cost so much. Just feel how solid they all are and think how long they'll last."

And then he took a pan in hand and thumped on it to beat the band. "Course this attracted passers-by and things began to sell. Soon Clowdy said, "Well, goodness me, the shop's busy as can be." In 'bout an hour the owner said, "My son, you've done real well. I'll give you and your friends a treat. Buy all the candy you can eat." He handed out a dollar bill and Clowdy said, "Oh, gee! We're very thankful I am sure. Some candy we will soon secure." And then the Tines left the shop, all bubbling over with glee.

While walking down the winding street a strange old man they chanced to meet. "My, look at him!" cried Clowdy. "There's a fiddle on his head." The Travel Man said, "In this town that's how they carry things around. You're seeing very strange things now, of which you all have read."

Bowling Away to Health and Beauty

BOWLING is again coming into its own. As the benefits and advantages of this game are becoming rightly understood and appreciated by women, the number of bowling clubs with their tournament contests are increasing.

Bowling exercises muscles rarely brought into action. It combines exercise of muscles that every woman wants to keep pliant, with a delightful form of recreation, and it is a sport not confined to the young.

Any girl or woman who has never done systematic exercise, and who longs for social contacts, can attain both by patronizing a bowling alley. If you want to keep your figure young and pliant, if you want to keep your waistline down and your back slender, bowl.

Those who are naturally of slight build can remain so, gaining grace and suppleness in addition to slenderness, but the average girl finds that she begins to take on weight after 25. At 35, unless the utmost care is practiced, the figure has matured. It has thickened through the diaphragm and the abdomen has become more or less prominent.

In even young girls, a "high" stomach is fatal to youthful appearance, while heaviness through the hips and flanks either bespeaks one's age or adds a number of years to the figure.

In bowling, while the entire musculature of the body is actively engaged, the greatest strain is on the back and abdomen.

Bowling corrects habits of slumping and slouching, and even minor deformities of the back yield to the exercise of those structures of the back which the positions called for in bowling bring into action.

So, too, with the muscles of the waist, of the abdomen, and the hips. Under persistent bowling, a "high" stomach and mature abdomen fade away. The internal organs are mechanically massaged, so strengthening the processes of digestion, assimilation and elimination.

Where Furniture "Grows"

FANCY woods, used for veneers, inlay or overlay work or other ornamentation on the newest American furniture, are providing some of the most beautiful modern pieces for the home. And although most people can identify the four great furniture woods—walnut, oak, mahogany and maple—with reasonable accuracy, any variation from this quartet falls into the grouping headed "miscellaneous."

There's a world of romance in woods—where do they come from, how do they find their way into American furniture, what sort of people find them, perhaps in forests or jungles on the other side of the world?

Take another look at a matched-wood desk or bed or table in your home and see what story it tells you . . . or, if you don't speak that language, ask your furniture dealer to act as interpreter.

A new Louis XVI bed, for example, is walnut, but the unusual design is obtained by the use of satinwood and Carpathian elm. Incidentally, two extremely popular figures are used, that on the foot of the bed giving the sun ray effect, while the head is decorated with the diamond design. A lacquer finish leaves the fancy veneers in their natural coloring.

SATINWOOD is one of the most popular woods for this purpose. It is extremely beautiful, highly figured, and comes to the United States from India, the West Indies and Australia.

A light orange in color, it is hard and close-grained and takes a very high polish. Like some mahogany, it tends to darken slightly with age.

Then there's ebony, a name applied indiscriminately to a number of blackish woods. The real ebony, however, comes from Africa and the Far East. Prima Vera (sometimes called white mahogany) comes from Mexico and Central America and is pale brown in color.

Parents---Too Cautious and Too Careless

MRS. CARTER didn't answer Buddy at once. She was counting her stitches on the white bone needle. Buddy repeated his question, "Mother, may I go up to the Bend with the boys? They're all going swimming."

Mrs. Carter at once looked worried. "The Bend! Swimming! Is it safe? Are there any holes there? Doesn't the tide come in pretty strong? It seems to me I've heard something about that place."

Mrs. Lewis on the next porch rocker looked amused. It was about the tenth time in two days that she had heard the new guest at the hotel use the same words.

"It's all right," she quickly assured the worried lady. "The boys here all go. Charles knows this whole country—I suppose he's going, is he, Buddy?"

"Yes—he got up the crowd. We're going in his canoe."

"A canoe! Oh, my goodness gracious! That's worse still. Is it safe, Mrs. Lewis?"

"CERTAINLY," smiled Mrs. Lewis. "Perfectly safe—if they behave themselves."

"That's just it. If—" But catching the expression on the other woman's face, she stopped.

"Well, go on," she said, "but be very, very careful. I'm so afraid you'll get hurt. Don't go any place you think would worry mother, will you? I'll count the minutes till you come back."

Buddy walked down the porch steps sedately—too sedately for a boy of 10. Mrs. Lewis

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

noticed it. Her Charles would have whooped like an Indian and vaulted over the rail, probably breaking half a dozen shrubs in his descent. She sighed.

"Buddy's your only child, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"Charles is all I have, too. I wonder sometimes if we are doing the right thing—when he's all we've got."

Mrs. Carter looked her question.

"His father and I are determined to teach him responsibility—how to look after himself, you know. We make a few rules, but otherwise he does almost anything he wants. He doesn't have to ask us any time he wishes to go anywhere."

"SAY, look here," said the Major's wife, stepping briskly around a corner, "Did your boys go on that picnic?"

"Yes," answered the others together.

"So did my Bill and I just learned that beach at the Bend is shut off. The storm loosened some rocks on the cliff and it's dangerous. Do you suppose they'll land at Mid Creek and walk across the point on that railroad bridge to the Bay? There's a good beach there and my Walter's been itching to go. I'll bet a green hat that's what they'll do. Too late to catch them now."

The boys did precisely what the Major's wife predicted—landed at Mid Creek, pulled the canoe up on the cobbly shore and climbed the steps up the steep bank. This brought them almost to the end of the bridge that spanned the narrow valley.

"I'll go first," said Charles. "It's safe, just put one foot over each tie and follow with the other. Go slow and don't look at the water. You won't get dizzy."

They were half way over when they heard the train.

Buddy was not on the bridge. He thought, "Mother would not let me go." Besides, he was afraid of such a risky adventure. The others now ran in frantic jumps. The Major's son swung down and hung by his hands, but Charles fell, missed his hold on the tie he clutched at so frantically, and dropped. He landed at the side of the stream where the water was quieter, but his head grazed a rock.

The Major's son was more fortunate. He had to drop, too, but although he was bruised and cut, it was not so serious. The other boys just made it. Then they ran for help.

BUDDY stood alone still at the other end of the bridge, his arm over his face.

We smile at the mother who ties her child to her apron string, and we applaud the one who goes to the other extreme, permitting her child to learn his own bitter lessons, often forgetting that children do not know real danger when they see it, and should be warned.

The world is full of dangerous places. Until a child is mature enough to recognize such places it is our duty to try as far as possible to keep them safe. We might blink at straws, but when it comes to hazardous haystacks, let us try first of all to keep them alive and safe.

Eating Around America

DOWN IN GEORGIA
By GAYNOR MADDOX

THE cool spaciousness of Georgia dining rooms is an architectural tribute to the splendor of Georgia peach recipes.

Not that September peaches, alone, large and winning as they are, ever constitute an entire meal. Long before the pride of the orchard appears, you pass through a list of remarkable foods that give delicious meaning to the phrase "Southern Hospitality."

But as this is September, our last, as well as our first thought in Georgia will be about peaches. This recipe comes from a home of many huge rooms on a hill overlooking the city of Augusta, where the shade beneath a tall portico is welcome relief from the sun that is busy ripening peaches in the orchard.

Peel eight large peaches (they are always large if real Georgian), slicing in toward the pit to make wide wedges. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a frying pan and stir in one tablespoon of brown sugar.

Add the peaches to the caramelized sugar and let them simmer for 10 minutes. Add about four canned apricots, cut in half, and one-fourth cup of apricot syrup.

Pour this fruit, sugar, butter and syrup into a buttered deep baking dish. Keep it warm while you beat up a one-egg cake batter. Add one tablespoon of pulverized blanched almonds to the cake.

Then, bravely and without fear of it drowning, pour your cake batter over the top of the warm fruit mixture. Bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes. Then lower the temperature and bake another 10 or 15 minutes, until cake is done. Serve with cold whipped cream.

Georgia peaches and southern hospitality can make life gayer wherever you may live.

Hand-Made Art That Is Felt

THERE is a revival of interest in hand-made pretties for the home this year. But of course it takes modern expression. The new art is felt! Felt flowers, birds, beasts or formalized designs glued onto felt backgrounds for this, that and the other thing about the house.

Small objects are usually the first things to be felt. Sofa pillows are a good place to begin. After sofa pillows, there are table runners for the library, wall hangings, chair covers, all manner of other things.

The manner in which you put your felt decorations onto the felt background is important. Here are some directions:

1. Trace the design of flowers, dogs, cats or whatever you wish, onto paper first. Cut these out for patterns from which you cut your felt.

2. Place your paper patterns on your felt. Baste them on with long stitches so they won't slip. Or pin them. Cut out the felt with the sharpest scissors you can lay hands on.

3. Remove the patterns from your felt when it is cut. Place the paper patterns on top of the background. In some way designate on the background just where applied design goes.
4. Place the appliqued flowers, birds or beast designs face downward and apply a coating of strong glue all over the back.
5. Glue all colored borders on first and place the appliqued designs on over the border, rather than under them. Allow a full inch for glue. Put the designs on carefully, following the marks you designated as the spots for the edges to go.
6. When you finish gluing on the designs, weight the piece down for at least 24 hours.

MRS. J. P. BAUMGARTNER

A wave of grief that touched hearts in countless homes in Santa Ana ranging from the lowliest to the proudest, swept the city Saturday when it was learned that death had called Mrs.
J. P. Baumgartner, after an acute illness of only a few days' duration.

All friends of the family, and they are countless, have recognized the indomitable courage with which Mrs. Baumgartner has struggled against the ravages of poor health over a long period of years. Always that courage has carried her through one crisis after another to a semblance of health. But gradually her strength has been sapped, and when she was stricken with paralysis just a week ago in her home, members of her family circle realized that the end was approaching.

She never rallied from the stroke, remaining in a semi-conscious condition until the end came quietly and painlessly, early Saturday forenoon. There was a peaceful beauty in her passing that carried a small measure of comfort to the aching hearts of those who were nearest and dearest to her.

To Mr. Baumgartner goes forth the sympathy of everyone in the community, for no family has played a more prominent part in the church, business and social life of Orange county, and none is better nor more favorably known. No more beautiful a tribute could be paid to a life comrade than Mr. Baumgartner today paid to her who has shared his joys and sorrows through so many years:

"I think of her as a good soldier 'gone west.'
As a comrade in Paradise. For she was a good soldier, always on the firing line, never shirking duty, and with her outstanding qualities of generosity, loyalty and courage, never failing a comrade."

And these sentiments expressed by the sorrowing husband, will find an echo in the hearts of hundreds of saddened friends. They will remember another quality also, one that made companionship with Mrs. Baumgartner a gay and joyous thing. This was her unflinching sense of humor which always was ready to see the amusing side of any situation. Undoubtedly it was this fresh and bubbling humor which helped her bear burdens that otherwise might have overwhelmed even her courage and fortitude.

These were the qualities that will serve to keep her memory green in the hearts of all with whom she came in contact, and today, as sorrowing friends take leave of the mortal part of Lida Sexton Baumgartner, they are comforted by the knowledge that they need never say farewell to the spiritual essence—that brave, courageous personality whose memory will remain with them as a constant inspiration to accept life and its problems with fortitude and cheerfulness.

LADY ASTOR ON RUSSIA

After waiting a bit one has come upon a statement from Lady Nancy Astor on her impressions of Russia. The bulk of her impressions are settling down in her mind to be used from time to time in her own resourceful and quick-witted way. Lady Astor is practical, sane and clear-headed. Her attitude makes her viewpoint most acceptable and as well as anticipated.

In an interview with a representative of the Christian Science Monitor, she said:

To understand modern Russia you must constantly bear in mind old Russia, with its autocratic government, its periodical peasant risings, the revolution of 1905, attempt at free speech ending in Siberia, 80 per cent of its pople unable to read or write, and a church hitched to authority, full of superstition and vain symbols. . . . the whole thing cut off from the rest of the civilized world. That was Russia in 1922. Remember all this and then you will marvel at what it has done.

There is no doubt about the tyranny, whereby the new dispensation is being ushered in.
The ruling caste is making a deliberate attempt to burn into the national consciousness dogmas which obliterate the individual personality and many of the things that we in the West hold most dear.

It's no use simply applying the standards of the more or less comfortable classes in the home country. The dominance of the proletariat is not a mere phrase. The comparison must be with what went on before. Pre-war Russia was a country with 80 per cent of its population illiterate, a country endowed with plenty of natural riches, yet, as the World War showed us, the worst equipped in the world. . . .

We saw enough to realize that Russia is not immediately concerned with making a world revolution. It has its hands full in managing its own revolution. It really fears attacks from without and with vivid memories of 1918-21, foreign intervention.

SCHOOL DAYS

There was a marked change in the appearance of the city today as we drove down to the office. For the past few months there have been few people on the streets early in the morning, but lo! there were many this morning, scurrying down the street in bright colored dresses and well-pressed trousers. School has begun!

We still can remember the mixed feelings with which we started the school year. There was a feeling of apprehension as to how we would like our new teacher and our new room, and also a dislike to return to study after a summer of leisure, of baseball games and evenings of hide-and-seek. There was the joy of seeing the old comrades, the rehearsal of the summer experiences, and the anticipation of the new schoolmates.

Possibly school days have changed somewhat, and the students are all glad to return to school, for one of the aims of modern education, we believe, is to educate the child as much as possible in the easiest and most pleasant manner for him to learn. But even at that, we should hazard the guess that there were many boys and girls who hesitantly followed the old path to school this morning. Little do they realize that school days are happy days, and also very profitable days.

We wish all the children of Santa Ana and Orange county a most enjoyable and profitable school year!

THE NEW SPANISH CONSTITUTION

The new Spanish Constitution which has just been prepared is indicative of a general trend in countries which are breaking away from a traditional past. Of course, royalty and nobility are no longer recognized; church and state have become separate; great holdings by ecclesiastical organization revert to the people; marriage becomes a civil contract, to be dissolved by agreement of both parties, by the wife by petition, and by the husband on proof of a statutory charge.

The most marked feature of the new Constitution, however, is that which is general in all new Constitutions. Private property is recognized, but at any time it may be sequestered by the state when its interests make it desirable. In other words, the "rugged individualism" which is emphasized in the old order is giving way to an autocratic state. This has its out, and the marked individual is loath to accept it with good grace. But this is the trend, and lest it go much farther, as in Russia, the advocates of the old order might well proceed with caution.

Redwood and Sequoia

Oakland Tribune

If the plans to measure the big trees of California were designed for publicity value, it is apparent they were successful. Newspapers the country over are discussing the fact that the General Sherman, sequoia in Sequoia National park, is the largest living thing and are making comparisons to the General Grant tree and even to tall buildings in their own cities. Thus a New York paper says the General Sherman is 9.4 feet taller than the Yale Club building in that city.

But the General Sherman, largest living thing, is not the tallest. On Sunday in the Bull Creek Dyer-ville Redwood Park, newest acquisition, ceremonies will be held to name the tallest known tree, a Redwood 264 feet high, in honor of the three founders of the Save-the-Redwoods League, Dr.
John C. Merriam, Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn and Madison Grant. This Redwood looms 92 feet above the General Sherman sequoia.

The new park, aside from the great number of exceptionally large redwoods it possesses, and its unusual botanical interest, affords unusual possibilities for recreation which, it is expected, will attract increasing numbers of tourists and vacationists every year. More than 15 miles of river frontage (the south fork of the Eel) will offer opportunities for boating, swimming and fishing, with a number of idyllic spots along the river and among the trees for picnicking. Existing foot-and-horseback trails leading to remote parts of the park will be supplemented by still others being planned by the park commission. While plans are being made for camping and picnicking at specified places, every effort will be made to preserve in-volute not only the redwoods but the luxuriant undergrowth, shrubbery and giant ferns which enhance the beauty of the redwood forest.

Enforcing Flying Rules

Oakland Tribune

Proof the government is determined to bring to time all airmen who violate the regulations is to be seen in the announcement that the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce dealt with 310 violations of air commerce regulations during the second quarter of this year. The total was just three under that of the first quarter.

Fines in the amount of $600 were assessed and collected, and $1025 was collected on civil penalties previously assessed. During the second quarter, fines were assessed against 79 persons. Penalties in the form of 49 reprimands, 103 suspensions, 21 revocations and 6 denials of licenses were meted out for violations. In 53 cases, evidence was produced which justified dismissal.

Violations of the Air Commerce Regulations dealing with aerobatics led the list of specific offenses.
There were 65 violations of the aerobatics regulations and 44 of the low flying clause of the regulations. Other specific violations during the first quarter of 1931 were: Unlicensed pilot flying licensed planes, 28; flying without navigation lights, 4; flying without identification numbers, 3. The miscellaneous offenses numbered 166. Of the total number of violations, 33 are still pending.

Citizens who are frightened by low-flying planes, or by the foolhardy stunts of some of the airmen have the assurance the Department of Commerce is genuinely concerned in ridding the air of the reckless and the unqualified.

Health If Not Wealth

San Francisco Chronicle

This nation has at least one thing to be thankful for this year. Its health is better. For four successive months this summer the death rate has been dropping until it is predicted that 1931 will equal or beat the health record of any previous year. The biggest part of this access of good health, according to one of the life insurance companies, has come in that part of the United States west of the Rocky mountains. This is natural. Not for nothing do we on the Pacific Coast have the best climate.

More Truth Than Poetry

MORE TROUBLE

I've learned from Mr. Peary
And also from Doctor Cook
That Greenland has a dreary
And most unpleasant look.
Its harbors are surrounded
With large and ugly flocks;
Its tracts of land are bounded
By endless drifts of snows.
I'd not be satisfied there;
I'd simply loathe the land;
How people can abide there
Is hard to understand.

Yet European nations,
I lately have been told,
Which maintain sealing stations
Amid that arctic cold,
With arguments unending
And ultimate hot
Are bitterly contending
That each one owns the spot.
Unless they solve the tangle
It won't be long before
The finish of the wrangle
Will be a deadly war.

If nations go to battle
About the home of whales,
Where icebergs creak and rattle
When driven by the gales,
If they grow grim and bitter
About a gelid place
Where snow birds never twitter,
And rivers never race,
If neither one will give in But blusters more and more
This world we mortals live in
Has NOT been cured of war.

FIFTY FIFTY

Why should people object to fee splitting by doctors? It is little worse than hairsplitting by lawyers.

IN DANGER

Some day some gangster will park his car too near a fire hydrant and get arrested.

INEXPERT

If it is true that the gangsters intend to kill only one another, it would pay city governments to give them lessons in marksmanship.

A Forecast of Good Times

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Have we struck the bottom of this depression? Are the gains in production which we have made this year, permanent gains?

One of the most dependable helps in answering these questions is the index of production of consumers' goods. Consumption regulates production. When more goods are bought and used up by final consumers, more goods are produced and more workers are employed.

When more consumers' goods are bought, more raw materials are bought. An increased demand for clothing and shoes and automobiles always is followed by an increased demand for wool and leather and steel. In short, better business in consumers' goods leads to better business in producers' goods. That is what we naturally expect from the fact that consumption regulates production.

And that is what has actually happened since the war. Increased production of consumers' goods in 1919 was followed by increased production of producers' goods. The same sequence occurred in 1921, 1924, and in 1929. In every case, a gain in the output of consumers' goods accurately forecast a gain in general business activity, and therefore a gain in payrolls and employment.
January this year marked the lowest point thus far reached in this depression for both classes of goods, and both classes made notable gains during the early months of the year. Part of the gains however, were lost during the summer.

Recent gains in the output of such consumers' goods as shoes, textiles and tires are encouraging. If the output of consumers' goods as a whole increases as fast in the last quarter of this year, as it did in the first quarter, that will be a sign of returning prosperity for business as a whole. It will be as reliable a forecast of good times as we are likely to get this year.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE EDUCATIONAL DILEMMA

Some days ago I suggested that a casual relation exists between the specialization of our education and the incapacity we have lately displayed in dealing with the general policies of our civilization.

I suggested that our school system is organized, in the main, to produce professional scholars, rather than to educate men to create, comprehend and control their civilization.

I do not question the legitimate sovereignty of specialization in the explorative enterprise of research.

I insist only that the extension of the sovereignty of specialization to the program and processes of education has prevented rather than produced the kind of discipline and direction we must have if we are to give stability and significance to our social order in the midst of modern complexity.

Specialized instruction can produce a scholar, but only an integrated education can produce an educated man.

The distinction I draw between the scholar, who has a mastery of scientific facts, and the educated, who has a mastery of social understanding, is not new, but never before in American history has it been so critically necessary to make this distinction and to refashion our educational system in terms of it.

When the scale of American enterprise was small, when the interrelationships of the American social order were simple, and when the tempo of American life was slow, fairly well-informed men of ordinary good sense could keep the ship of American civilization on even keel.

Today, however, the scale of American enterprise is so vast, the inter-relationships of the American order so complex, and the tempo of American life so swift that unless we bring something more than technical skill and specialized knowledge to its operation, its survival may be relatively brief
as the historian reckons brevity.

We must send our critical intelligence, like a refiner's fire, through our educational system which has come to its present form less by statesmanlike design than by accident, accretion, and accommodation.

We must deliberately and drastically refashion the institutional system through which we are now seeking to serve the dual purpose of scholarship and education, separating as I suggested the other day, the enterprise of scholarship and the enterprise of education far enough to prevent each from ham-stringing the other as now.

Tomorrow I shall suggest how I think we should make separate provision for the training of professional scholars and the promotion of productive scholarship.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

SCHOOL SUPPLIES

Children like to carry things to school. They take pride in having the biggest school bag, the grandest pencil box, the most books.
Unless they are watched they will burden themselves with supplies that they do not need. The weight they carry wears them. It gets in the way of the school routine. It is difficult for a child marching in line from one part of a building to another to care for books. Little children often fall on the stairs trying to care for their supplies.
The less of them the children carry,
the better.

Strip their school bags to the bare limits of necessity. They are to carry only what they need for the day. The younger children need carry little or nothing. Usually they have no home lessons and so need carry no books, and the pencils should be left in school. It is better that small children carry no pointed instruments, not even a pencil.

The children of the elementary grades are likely to load themselves down with books. This they do to feel important, to serve notice to the world that they are busy people and carry a weight of knowledge. The loads of books they carry are likely to cause poor posture, too big a price to pay for a gesture of superiority. Examine the books they are carrying and reduce them to what is needed.

There is little difficulty with the high school students. They are past the stage of acquisition, past the stage where they want to impress the world with the weight of their books. They are likely to err on the other side. And also they are likely to be careless with their material. They mark text books; they mar pages of pages of books; they tear leaves from books. They lay them around and lose them. They, too must be checked up on school supplies because, first, the bad habit they are forming, next, the cost of the materials they are wasting.

Books are rarely marred in school time. When the children are on their way to and from school they lay their books on the ground.
They toss them about, they hide them in damp and dirty places. At home the books often get into the hands of the younger children and are damaged. Or they are left on the table where food is eaten and soiled past redemption. All these causes of waste and loss can be lessened if home cooperates with school and checks up the children in the matter of school supplies.

All books ought to be covered with clean paper. The cover should be changed frequently enough to keep it in presentable condition. A place for books and supplies should be kept at the disposal of the children and each child held responsible for keeping his things in place.

Each term the books should be examined so that parents know the condition of them when received, the treatment given them by the child owner, and the condition of them at the end of the term.
This attention to supplies is not only important to the character growth of the children, it is important to the tax rate of the community. School supplies cost money. Schools need bountiful supplies. If care is exercised money will go farther, service will be improved and school activities broadened. Waste hurts all concerned children, parents and teachers.

velopment of children. Write him in

ELIHU ROOT'S SPEECH

On Sept. 14, 1917, Elihu Root, speaking to the National Security League of Chicago, denounced war opponents as traitors to the United States.

Root's address was quoted from coast to coast and commented on in the foreign press.

On this date also the Italian army regained the summit of Mount San Gabriele.

Germans entered the French trenches on the 500-yard front north of Courrières Wood, and Russians, on the Riga front, captured Kronberg, Ketzin, Sissel and Peine.

Time To Smile

CLEVER WITH COLORS

Jackie had drawn a caricature of the teacher.
"TEACHER: You seem to be an artist in black and white."
JACKIE: Yes, sir.
TEACHER: Now, I will show that I am an artist in black and blue.—Buen Humor, Madrid.

FIGURING IT OUT

SUITOR: Sir, I would like to marry your daughter.
FATHER: No, young fellow, you are too young—you are scarcely 20 and she is 28. Wait 10 years, then you will be 30—and my daughter will still be 28.—Pathfinder.

USELESS EFFORT

HE: If you hadn't fooled around so much we shouldn't have missed the train.
SHE: Yes, and if you hadn't made me run like mad, we should not have had so long to wait for the next one.—Tit-Bits.
